Rogers—Indochina

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers said Monday a halt in U.S. bombing in Cambodia without withdrawal of North Vietnamese forces "would undermine the central achievement" of the Jan. 27 Vietnam peace agreement.

The President's powers under the Constitution as commander-in-chief "are adequate to prevent such a self-defeating result," Rogers told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Rogers said the President's authority to enforce compliance with the peace agreement is the same that permitted him to negotiate and execute the agreement.

He said that Article 20 of the agreement, requiring withdrawal of foreign forces from Cambodia and Laos, "recognizes the underlying connections among the hostilities in all the countries of Indochina."

The presence in Cambodia and Laos of North Vietnamese troops threatens, he said, the right of self-determination of the South Vietnamese people, which was a key United States objective in the Vietnam war and is guaranteed by the peace agreement.

To argue that the Constitution requires immediate halting of U.S. air strikes in Cambodia because of the agreement, he said, is an argument that the Constitution "contains an automatic self-destruct mechanism designed to destroy what has been so painfully achieved."

Rogers presented a separate 13-page statement of administration position on the President's authority to continue the Cambodian bombing in an appearance before the committee on the $587-million State Department authorization bill for fiscal 1974.

Committee members were not convinced.

"I think it's illegal," said Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo. "I believe that what we are doing there is without justification in the Constitution and in Law," said Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine.

Farm Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prices farmers get for raw products dropped 1.5 per cent in April, the first decline in 13 months. But they still averaged 32 per cent higher than a year earlier, the Agriculture Department said Monday.

The Crop Reporting Board, commenting on farm prices for the month ended April 15, said most of the decline was caused by lower prices for hogs, cattle, calves, lambs, milk and strawberries.

Higher prices, which offset part of the other reductions, were reported for onion, lettuce, wheat and broiler chickens.

Before April, the index for prices received by farmers last declined in March, 1972.

Prices held steady last September before beginning a six-month rise to record levels, including a 5.0-per cent increase in January, 3.0 per cent in February; and 7.0 per cent in March.

Officials said the price index for meat animals declined 5 per cent in April but was still 39 per cent above a year earlier.

Beef cattle averaged $42.40 per 100 pounds of live weight in April, compared with a record of $43.60 in March and $31.90 a year earlier. Hogs, dropping from a record of $38.30 per 100 in March, averaged $35.10 in April. A year earlier hogs brought $22.50 per 100 pounds.

Lambs averaged $35.40 per 100 pounds, compared with a record $39.50 in March and $28.10 a year earlier.

For all farm products, prices averaged 57 per cent more than in 1967, a year used as a base. In March the price average was a record 59 per cent higher than the 1967 base.

The April report showed that prices farmers pay to meet expenses rose 1.5 per cent and averaged 12 per cent more than a year earlier.

Middle East

Libya closed its doors to all foreign travelers except those with Arabic-language passports Monday in an apparent extension of Col. Moammar Khadafi's Arab nationalist "cultural revolution."

In another Middle East development, Palestinian guerrillas tried to attack the U.S. Embassy in Lebanon but were stopped before they got there with a suitcase full of explosives, police said.

The new Libyan policy, in effect, halts travel into the oil-rich northern African country except by Arabs. It is a tightening of rules laid down by Khadafi's regime in January but heretofore applied only to tourists and some newsmen.

Diplomats in the Libyan capital of Tripoli and in Rome said hundreds of foreigners who tried to fly to Libya over the weekend were stopped at the Tripoli or Benghazi airports and forced to board the earliest flight out. Those refused entry included resident foreign oil workers and their families, some with valid visas who had gone to Europe on holiday, the diplomats reported.

An official at the Libyan Foreign Ministry declined to detail how the restrictions will be applied or give the reasoning behind them. But a Libyan diplomat in Rome, where many of those turned back were forced to return, said the Khadafi government will make no exceptions.

Libya has a substantial foreign community, particularly to work the huge oil fields. It includes several thousand Americans. There was no indication Khadafi planned to force them out, and expulsion was viewed as unlikely because of wide reliance on the foreigners in key oil, engineering, education and medical posts.

Police in Beirut, Lebanon, reported they foiled the attempt by Palestinian guerrillas to attack the U.S. Embassy. Security officers said four members of Al Fatah, the largest guerrilla group, were arrested.

Takes Final Responsibility

President Tackles Scandal

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon told the nation Monday night he accepts final responsibility for the Watergate scandal that led him to accept the resignations of H. R. Haldeman, John D. Ehrlichman and Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst.

In a solemn address to the nation, hours after a major shakeup in his administration, the President said the blame belongs at the top.

"I accept it," he said in a nationally broadcast and televised address.

In the shakeup, Nixon fired presidential counsel John W. Dean III and nominated Secretary of Defense Elliot L. Richardson to be attorney general.

The President gave Richardson the job of overseeing the administration's Watergate investigation and of naming a special prosecutor to probe the incident if Richardson deems one necessary.

Until late March, Nixon said, he had been assured by those around him that no one in the administration was involved in the bugging and wiretapping.

"However, new information then came to me which persuaded me that there was a real possibility some of these charges were true, and suggested further that there had been an effort to conceal these facts both from the public, from you, and from me," Nixon said.

Thus did Nixon disclaim any advance knowledge of the June 17 break-in at Democratic national headquarters.

The President said he ordered an intensive new inquiry with the results to be reported directly to him.

He said he was determined that the truth be brought out, no matter who was involved.

The resignations of Haldeman and Ehrlichman as top White House aides, Nixon said, did not imply their guilt. He called them two of the finest public servants he had ever known.

"I wanted to be fair, but I knew that in the final analysis the integrity of this office and public faith in the integrity of this office would have to take priority over all personal considerations," Nixon said.

The drama of the address recalled another moment of crisis, 21 years ago, when as vice presidential nominee, Nixon delivered his "Checkers speech" defending the $18,235 trust fund that helped pay his (Turn To Page Six)

Ellsberg's Attorney Wants To Know More

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Daniel Ellsberg's chief attorney asked Monday that 11 present and former government officials be ordered to tell what they know about links between Watergate conspirators and an alleged burglary of an office containing Ellsberg's psychiatric records.

Attorney Leonard Boudin said he wants to find out whether the Pentagon papers indictment was part of a "political espionage" plot.

U.S. District Court Judge Matt Byrne took the request under submission but said affidavits probably would have to be taken from the men before they were called to testify at the trial.

The witnesses Boudin wants to call to a special hearing include former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, resigned Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst, resigned White House aide John Ehrlichman, former acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray and convicted Watergate conspirators E. Howard Hunt and G. Gordon Liddy.

Boudin also named former special presidential counsel Charles W. Colson; John W. Dean III, fired Monday as presidential counsel; Watergate trial prosecutor Earl Silbert; Justice Department criminal division chief Henry E. Peterson, and Robert C. Mardian, former assistant attorney general who became political coordinator of the Committee for Re-Election of the President.

The judge indicated he would be amenable to a request by Boudin to send jurors home and suspend trial testimony "until this situation is cleaned up, if it can be cleaned up."

Boudin said he felt revelations which would come out of affidavits and testimony "will mean the end of this case," but added the defense would not be satisfied with affidavits alone because "very frankly, we don't trust the government of the United States."

"I am certain," defense attorney Leonard Weinglass told the judge later, "that this case should not go to the jury under the cloud that now sits over it." Weinglass is Russo's chief attorney.

Weinglass also asked that Ehrlichman be questioned about his intentions when he contacted Byrne about possible appointment as FBI director last month.

Byrne announced from the bench before proceedings began that he had been contacted on April 5, had met with Ehrlichman at the Western White House in San Clemente and was introduced to President Nixon.

He said there was no discussion of anything related to the Pentagon papers trial and that he refused to consider the offer until the trial's end.

"The mere fact of the contact," said Weinglass, "raises some questions in our minds of what was in Mr. Ehrlichman's mind when he contacted the court."

Flood Danger Far From Over As Forecast Calls For Rain

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The flood waters receded slightly in the northern part of the Mississippi River Valley Monday, but the danger was far from over and the damage was still mounting.

The Mississippi stood at 42.8 feet in St. Louis, down from 43 feet on Sunday and from a record crest of 43.3 feet—13.3 feet above flood stage—on Saturday.

But the weather forecast called for more rain, with thunderstorms Monday night and the Army Corps of Engineers said it was rebuilding its stocks of sandbags and emergency pumps.

A spokesman noted that the river already had crested three times in a short period and warned people to remain vigilant. "Any relaxation now would be courting disaster," he said.

The Corps of Engineers has estimated 35,000 persons have been evacuated from the area between Hannibal, Mo. and the Gulf of Mexico. Eleven persons have died because of the flood and more than 10 million acres, including prime farmland, is under water along the 1,500-mile route of the Mississippi. Agricultural experts say cotton crops may be cut back sharply.

Damage already is in the millions in the seven states affected by the flood and officials say they will be unable to provide a total estimate until the waters recede.

South of St. Louis, in Crystal City, Police Capt. Robert Nahlik said his first helicopter flight over the area was a startling experience. "I damn near cried," he said. "I finally realized how many people we've got down here affected by this thing."

Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz will make an aerial tour of the flooded areas on Tuesday.

The Mississippi was cresting Monday at Chester, Ill., about 60 miles south of St. Louis. The river hit 43.3 feet — 16.3 feet over the flood stage level of 27 feet.

The river forecasting service said the Mississippi would crest at Cairo, Ill., in the southernmost part of the state, on Wednesday, but said the level of the river would be below levees and no flooding was expected.

"Of course this crest will move on down stream," a spokesman said, "so it looks like all points down stream to Natchez will rise slowly over the next several days. Below Natchez, — that is, below the Morganza and Old River Control Structures, which are diverting part of the river water out of the main stream — the river should stay fairly flat since these structures will flatten out that crest and will take off a lot of the flow and divert it. New Orleans will change very little."

Wage-Price Controls Win Year's Extension

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon Monday night signed a bill granting him a one-year extension of authority to control wages and prices.

The White House said Nixon signed the measure at 10 p.m., two hours before his economic control authority would have expired. He approved the bill shortly after delivering a nationally broadcast address on the Watergate case.

The House approved the bill and sent it to the President after waiting all Monday afternoon for the Senate to act. House passage came on a 267-115 roll-call vote; the Senate action was by voice vote.

The way was cleared for Senate action when Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo., yielded after threatening to talk until midnight unless he got a vote on his postcard-voter-registration measure.

Speaking to newsmen last Saturday, Secretary of the Treasury George P. Shultz said the administration hoped Congress would extend the control authority. But even if Congress delays action, he said, it wouldn't necessarily imperil the government's anti-inflation program.

The Senate fell two votes short Monday of closing off a filibuster on the voter registration bill. The vote was 56 to 31, short of the two-thirds vote needed to stop debate.

McGee could step aside and allow action on the compromise version of the bill extending the President's authority to impose controls.

But he told the Senate: "I'm in great shape. If midnight is the challenge, I believe I can give it a try."

Some Republicans have objected to provisions in the controls bill which expand the number of working poor exempt from wage controls; allow presidential allocation of fuel products; and require big business disclosure of price hike information.

McGee's registration bill would allow registration for federal elections by postcard, benefiting primarily, hearing witnesses said, minorities, the aged and handicapped.

Opponents say mail registration would present the opportunity for widespread fraud.

Kissinger Going To Moscow Soon

MOSCOW (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger is coming to Moscow at the end of the week.

President Nixon's top foreign affairs adviser will visit the Soviet capital chiefly to prepare for the forthcoming U.S. visit of Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev.

He also will confer with the Russian leadership on what the White House called a "whole range of bilateral problems" and what the news agency Tass said were "questions of mutual interest."

He is to leave Washington on Thursday, arrive here Friday and return to Washington after four or five days, officials in Moscow and Washington reported.

It was Kissinger who, on a secret trip, sorted out the preparations for Nixon's summit with Brezhnev in Moscow last spring.

The summit produced a package of bilateral agreements ranging from strategic arms limitation to a statement of principles governing Soviet-American relations.

Kissinger returned in September on an errand for Nixon, that time talking about trade problems, including the hurdles in front of most-favored-nation treatment for Soviet exports.

Besides the Brezhnev trip to the United States, believed planned for early summer, Kissinger and Brezhnev could discuss:

- Any new agreements covering trade or security to deepen the Soviet-American relationship.
- Soviet policy on emigration, particularly as it concerns Jews who want to leave for Israel.
- The second phase of strategic arms talks, covering offensive weapons. SALT 1, the first agreement signed last year, limited only defensive missile systems.
- Reduction of conventional armed forces facing off in central Europe.
- The all-European conference on European security and cooperation under preparation in Helsinki, Finland.

Soviet newspapers, apparently basing their comments on a secret Brezhnev speech made earlier, declared the Soviet economy is "closely linked" with the development of better relations with the West.

Broaden Cambodian Defense Perimeter

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cambodian government soldiers attacking in the wake of U.S. B-52 raids drove back enemy forces and broadened the defense perimeter around the besieged provincial capital of Takeo, military sources reported Monday.

Informants in Phnom Penh, the Cambodian capital, said the government troops struck Sunday in three directions and have expanded government-controlled territory by 2,000 yards on the western flank and 1,500 yards on the northern and southern edges of the encircled city. Their counterattack followed heavy pounding of suspected enemy troop concentrations by American bombers.

Takeo, a key city of 30,000 about 40 miles south of Phnom Penh, has been surrounded and under attack for several months. The city is a prime target of the antigovernment forces for the psychological effect of seizing a provincial center and for consolidation of their control of southern Cambodia.

The antigovernment forces control about two-thirds of the country and have cut off most of the country's highways. The Lon Nol regime claims they are Vietnamese Communists and imposes censorship on outgoing news dispatches to prevent newsmen from calling them Cambodians. However, field commanders and foreign diplomats indicate most of the fighting is being done by Cambodian Communists, with the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong providing logistical and leadership support.

An investigation team for Vietnam's International Commission of Control and Supervision inspected a commission helicopter downed in northern South Vietnam on April 7 to settle a dispute whether it was off course when the Viet Cong shot it down.

The senior Canadian commission member, Gen. Duncan McAlpine, conceded the inspection showed the helicopter was off course as claimed by the Viet Cong and denied by its civilian American pilots.

In Paris, American and North Vietnamese negotiators concluded a review of measures to improve observance of the much-violated peace accord and said they now will report back to their respective capitals.

Questions Bubble Over Alaska Oil

Alaska's oil-rich North Slope is going to be tapped. The question is not so much when but how.

That is, should the oil be piped across Alaska to the southern port of Valdez, and thence by tanker to the West Coast, as the oil companies want, or should it be transported wholly through pipelines across Alaska and Canada to the Midwest?

The answer will be up to Congress, and the forces on both sides are gearing up their arguments.

Not surprisingly, a number of mid-western senators and representatives favor the Canada route. What is surprising is that numerous environmentalists do, too. It is almost as if Canada did not have an environment to be concerned about, or a sovereign government that might have a say in the matter.

Points in favor of the Canada line include the facts that: (1) it would avoid areas of high earthquake hazard, (2) would avoid a marine leg, (3) would interfere less with caribou migrations and (4) might be combined with a gas line in a single corridor.

Also, it's argued that the Midwest needs oil more than the West Coast and that much of the oil delivered to the West Coast would only end up being shipped overseas, probably to Japan.

The administration, however, through Secretary of the Interior Rogers C. B. Morton has advised Congress that a trans-Alaska pipeline would best serve U.S. interests and that a Canadian route is "not desirable."

able."

The Alaskan and Canadian routes are equal in terms of their effect on the land and on wildlife, says Morton, but any pipeline through Canada would involve more unavoidable environmental damage because it would be about four times as long.

"It would affect more wilderness, disrupt more wildlife habitat, cross almost twice as much permafrost and necessitate use of three or four times as much gravel that has to be dug from the earth and it would obviously use about four times as much land."

Moreover, he says, discussions that have been held with Canadian officials have made it clear that there are certain conditions the government of Canada would impose on any pipeline through Canada.

These are: (1) a majority of the equity interest in the line would have to be Canadian, (2) the management would have to be Canadian, (3) a major portion (at least 50 per cent) of the capacity of the line would have to be reserved for the transportation of Canadian-owned oil to Canadian markets and (4) at all times preference would be given to Canadian-owned and controlled groups during the construction of the project and in supplying materials.

These are the major arguments pro and con that will have to be considered by Congress.

Whatever the decision may be, it can be said now with certainty that it is not going to satisfy everyone.

The General's Servants

From time to time it strikes civilians, including some who live fairly high on the hog, that the way to live really high on the hog is to be a high-ranking military officer. These public servants characteristically enjoy the attentions of public servants. This conundrum is not quite as obscure as it may seem at first encounter: the reference is to the fact that generals, admirals and Navy captains have low-ranking aides who act as personal household servants.

At the 'taxpayers' expense, that is. Figures prepared by the General Accounting Office say it costs us around 22 million dollars annually to pay for the officers' use of enlisted men to clean house, walk the dog, chauffeur the kiddies, cook, tend bar, do the gardening, and whatnot.

By Pentagon standards 22 million is not much; scarcely a grain of sand in the big sandbox of military expenditures. Our hunch is that many a taxpayer will agree with Sen. William Proxmire's claim that "at their rate of pay... generals and admirals can and should pay for their own luxuries." Legitimate use of aides is not questioned. Use of enlisted men to perform domestic chores for the top brass is something else again, and should be curtailed.

Tanner are so oversupplied with men that each will have to send some men home. The First regiment has 315 extras and the Fifth, which includes the Morgan Cadets, have 84 too many on hand.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Close the window. Dinner's getting dirty!"

Why Has Watergate Now Become Burning Issue?

By ARNOLD B. SAWISLAK
WASHINGTON (UPI) — After 10 months, why did the Watergate case suddenly become an issue of burning public concern?

Was it because James McCord suddenly began talking about higher-ups, with suggestions that some top people in the White House might have been involved?

Does it really seem more likely now than last summer that three relatively well-placed former employees of the White House and employees of President Nixon's campaign organization were on their own when they broke into Democratic headquarters?

The purpose of these questions is to suggest a somewhat ironic answer—that the public did not get excited about the Watergate because it occurred in the midst of a political campaign.

Public Was Aware
The suggestion—backed up by surveys conducted late last summer in the Syracuse, N.Y., area—is that while a large segment of the public was aware of the Watergate before the election, concern about it was directly related to an individual's preference in the presidential race.

Interviews by Syracuse University political scientists indicated that people who were solid for George S. McGovern thought Watergate was an outrage. Those who supported Nixon either dismissed Watergate as an example of dirty politics engaged in by both sides, or else—was a plot concocted by Democrats to seize attention.

What it boils down to is that voters refused to be diverted by the Watergate. They were focused on the center ring of the campaign—the personalities and proposals of Nixon and McGovern.

Those who deplored, as some new decline of American moral sensitivity, failure of voters to make a connection between the Watergate bugging and the Nixon candidacy forgot some relatively recent history.

Teapot Dome Scandal

Calvin Coolidge became President in 1923 in the midst of the Harding administration's Teapot Dome scandal, and was elected almost 2 to 1 over his nearest opponent in 1924. Not only that, but Republicans gained 22 seats in the House and three in the Senate that year.

The Watergate story broke at a time when voters were concluding that McGovern was not the man they wanted in the White House. They were thinking about things like immediate withdrawal from Vietnam; a $1,000 payment to every citizen; about abortion; and about amnesty. They were getting their first hard look at McGovern as one of two men they had to choose between for the presidency.

What happened Nov. 7 confirms that Nixon followed exactly the right strategy last summer and fall—sat back and projected the image of the dignified statesman, removed from all the thrashing about that McGovern had to go through trying to start his campaign rolling.

Aloofness on Watergate was part of the strategy. It worked.

So how come people are stirred up now about Watergate?

"Typical" Politics

Another suggestion: Once the business of choosing between Nixon and McGovern was over, the people—from Judge Sirica to the hard hat—demanded to know what the hell really happened.

They were interested because high mucky-mucks appeared to be involved—but not necessarily morally outraged by one political party's effort to break into the offices of another. In fact, a new Gallup Poll shows high interest in Watergate but with 53 per cent of the people regarding it as "typical" politics.

The President, who sees political timing as a most important ingredient of success, apparently ran out the string too long on his campaign strategy of the least said is the soonest mended.

Washington U.S. Not 'Teaming' With Its Friends

By RAY CROMLEY
WASHINGTON (NEA)—Ironically, the Nixon administration and the United States of late have been much more successful in dealing with enemies than with friends.

The breakthroughs with China and Russia are history. Relationships with old associates in Japan, Thailand, South Asia, the Arab World, Western Europe and Latin America are stagnating.

That we have not lost our one-time Arab friends completely is due more to Soviet bungling than to American skills.

In one Latin country after another we have failed to take those small but considerate actions which would hold our close associations. We do not, in reality, deal sensitively with the deep feelings of some of our associates South of the Rio Grande on how far to sea a country's territorial waters extend.

Japanese friends in high places tell me they are desperate for a chance to talk frankly and privately with those American officials who make decisions. They almost passionately want to do this regularly—so that they feel they are in on things and not merely being filled in as a necessary afterthought to keep them from boiling over.

The nub of the matter, as this reporter understands it from a variety of insiders from selected countries, is that these friends want to be considered as an integral part of the show, not just people and nations to be pulled along in our wake, or consulted urgently in crises. They want to be a part of the ongoing discussion.

Again, ironically, these sentiments mirror almost precisely the spirit of the Nixon doctrine, as outlined by the President. These precepts also are almost in word-by-word agreement with principles expressed by Dr. Henry Kissinger, Mr. Nixon's chief policymaker for foreign affairs.

Kissinger, even before coming to the White House, made it clear in his personal remarks and his writing that it was his firm belief the United States historically had done much better, and had gone much further in accomplishing its aims internationally, when this country worked as one of a team of nations moving toward agreed-on goals developed by the group.

By contrast, we have not done nearly so well, Kissinger has said, when we attempted to go it alone or have marched off strongly in one direction in an outward show of leadership, using all manner of persuasion to get other lands to do the right thing and join us.

Our national genius, Kissinger seems to believe, is as a bit of yeast in gatherings where other countries take the lead.

Here our influence, he says, can be phenomenal.

But this working together, as noted above, requires a day-to-day consultation (not an informing) in which this country's representatives give priority to listening to what leaders in allied countries have to say and in learning in detail their hopes and dreams—not what they say in public, but what they believe in their hearts. This, of course, does not come easy.

Mr. Nixon and Kissinger both have asserted this new road is necessary. What remains is for our actions to conform to our words.

Reseal, Return Unwanted Pornographic Mail

Dear Ann Landers: Now that society has taken a permissive attitude toward hard-core pornography it seems that whenever I go to the mailbox there is some dirty thing that I have to tear up so my children don't see it.

I don't know how in heaven's name I got on these mailing lists. I have never sent for anything except a seed catalog and kitchen gadgets. I have no interest in this trash and I don't want it coming to our home. Mind you, I have no desire to deprive those who enjoy looking at garbage but why must people who don't want it be subjected to this invasion of privacy?

Will you please tell us, Ann Landers, what we can do?—Mrs. Square America

Dear M.S.A.: The federal government has been successfully prosecuting several major purveyors of mail-order obscenity as a result of complaints filed by postal inspectors. The most effective way of handling the problem, Mrs. Square America, is to reseal the envelope and write on it, in bold letters, Postal Inspector, Please. Then drop it in the mailbox. No stamp is necessary.

Dear Ann Landers: First let me say I have two wonderful parents. They mean well, but ...

I am 28, have been happily married for eight years and we have four children. We built a house that was finished a few months ago, about 40 miles from where my parents live. We expect them here every Sunday.

My father is a pleasure and gives the children a great deal of attention, but my mother can't sit down for five minutes. She is either rearranging the cabinets, vacuuming, polishing the furniture or tidying up a closet. I am a good housekeeper and don't need any help. I've mentioned my feelings to her but to no avail. Meanwhile my husband becomes more irritated by the minute. He interprets her activities as a slam against my housekeeping. I want my mother to be a guest in our home, relax and enjoy her grandchildren.

Any suggestions? — Neat Enough For Us

Dear Neat: Your mother's non-stop vacuuming, polishing and tidying up has nothing to do with your housekeeping. It is a manifestation of her discomfort, her inability to be a part of the family. These activities are an excuse to isolate herself. Once you and your husband understand this, YOU will be able to relax and let Mrs. Clean do her own thing.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been married three weeks. We just had our first big fight. We've agreed to let you be the referee and your decision will be final.

Seven days after we returned from our honeymoon Ben started to read the newspaper at the breakfast table. I told him I consider this an insult and I asked him to stop. Ben says it's a lifelong habit and I have no right to make such a demand. He also claims he is not much of a morning communicator and it is better for our relationship if I try not to force him to be chatty. I say, now that he's a married man, he should be mature enough to drop his bachelor-type habits. What do you say?—Betty

Dear Betty: I say now that you're a married woman, you should be mature enough to leave him alone. Some people are not morning communicators and for them the newspaper can be a blessing.

FRANK AND ERNEST

YOUR BIRTHDAY AND HOROSCOPE

TUESDAY, MAY 1—Born today, you are one of those persons who impress others most of all with your powers of concentration. Able to work equally well alone or in the midst of a crowd, you have no need for congenial, harmonious surroundings in order to do your best. Whether the object is success in your career or in one or another of your many hobbies, you need only begin to put forth your time, energy, and talent to become completely engrossed and, therefore, fully capable of following through to the end whatever course you have initiated—regardless of the condition of the world around you.

All of this is not to imply, however, that you are indifferent to your surroundings or that you have little sympathy for other people. Whether or not others' lives touch yours, whether or not you are affected by situations and circumstances around you, you are always concerned that things should go well for others, that unpleasantness in your surroundings should be lessened. What you will not do is to allow your concern to interfere with your own efforts.

Extremely generous and inclined to burden yourself with the problems of others, you nevertheless cannot be accused of giving of your material possessions or of your moral support to such a degree that you or yours feel a lack. You are wise enough to maintain a good and proper balance between what you give, what you take, what you spend, and what you save. And such wisdom makes for a happy life.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Wednesday, May 2

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)—Take care that you are not yourself the agent of disaster where your own career is concerned. Make your plans carefully—and stick to them!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)—Apply your talents for investigation to the business of self-discovery. Don't be surprised should you come up with a trait you didn't know you had.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)—Your own knowledge of the way nature works should be enough to lead you surely and directly to the source of a recent problem.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)—Your loyalty to an old friend will not go unappreciated. Do what you can to serve another who has done the same for you in days gone by.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)—The more good you can do another at this point, the more you will discover gains in your future. Don't hesitate to share a discovery.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)—Employ your talent for persuasion—but combine it with your talent for tact. You can have things your own way while not appearing to do so.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)—Nothing to excess today. Should you be carried away by your appetites, you will no doubt regret it at a later date. Keep yourself available.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)—Fearlessness is more important to your success today than you might like to think. Show your determination to please those in authority.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19)—Consider your former statements and you will understand the concern of other people at this time. Though you can't recall them, you may retract them.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)—Take care that your good nature does not cause others to impose upon you. You have enough problems of your own today; accept no others.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)—Your insistence that others take on their share of the responsibility for a joint project should eventually win the day. Keep at it!

ARIES (March 21-April 19)—Consider the consequences of a major change in your profession carefully. You may well be jumping out of the frying pan into the fire.

14 INMATES HURT IN STATEVILLE PRISON FIGHT

JOLIET, Ill. (AP) — Authorities at Stateville Penitentiary are investigating the cause of a disturbance at the maximum security institution which left 14 inmates injured, two of them seriously.

Warden John Twomey said the fight broke out Sunday afternoon in the prison recreation yard among some 50 inmates, who began swinging baseball bats, weightlifting equipment, and their fists.

The fight was broken up after guards fired warning shots from the prison's towers and additional guards appeared in the yard.

Two inmates required hospitalization. They were Elmore McLemore, 24, who suffered a puncture wound in the lower back, and Michael Parker, 20, who suffered serious head injuries. The two were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital in Joliet.

Soiled Beaded Bag Is Reader's Problem

By POLLY CRAMER
Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—Last year I bought a white beaded bag which has soiled and am afraid to clean it. I do not know whether the beads are glass or plastic. The cleaners will not take it. The underside of the strap and the zipper opening are white cloth that is dirty so I hope someone can tell me what to do. I would like to use this bag when summer comes.—KAREN

DEAR POLLY—My Pet Peeve is with supermarkets and shopping centers that have no lavatory facilities for children. The supermarkets are the worst offenders. Often one spends two hours getting to the market and doing the shopping. When a small child is along, he inevitably wants to go to the bathroom before the shopping is finished.—EDNA

DEAR POLLY—I am answering Rita who had antiqued two tables and then waxed them so heavily that they would not buff to a shine but had a streaked look. Sorry, Rita, but I think there is only one solution and that is to use paint and varnish remover and then start all over again. Probably what happened is that you waxed the tables too soon after applying the varnish. The solvents in wax will soften varnish that has not had time to dry properly. The wax and varnish mix together and the result is just a mess. Varnish that has dried several days, and to a hard finish, should not be affected in this manner. I always use paste wax instead of spray wax. Next time around let the varnish "age" for several days before applying any wax. Hope this helps as I, too, learned the hard way.—MR. A.H.R.

DEAR POLLY—My service-man husband is stationed overseas. Often I come upon items he would be interested in, articles of clothing he might need, books or things he forgot to take along, so to make sure I do not misplace or forget them, I have reserved one drawer for the things I want to send him. The kids like this, too, and add special treasures they want to send to Dad.—MRS. S.K.

(Polly's Note—This is also a good idea for those with young people away at college.)

DEAR POLLY—I have found a most successful way to keep the trough clean under the sliding glass doors in the shower. They collect dirt and grease and are almost impossible to clean. I bought an expansion rod and a shower curtain and hung them inside the doors so the runoff goes down the curtain and drains into the tub. I used pinkish shears to trim the curtain off to the right length and then used the cut off part to line the shelves in the medicine cabinet. I bought a cheap white curtain but a floral pattern would look pretty through the glass doors. No more trying to dig dirt out of these troughs. I think the wives of mechanics would find this especially useful.—MRS. A.R.

Curbside concerts are audience attracters—sometimes numbering just one, right—on the city's sidewalks and parks evenings and weekends. The settings may be unusual but the musicians are serious, bottom, mostly conservatory students playing for the love of music. (Photos by John Arms)

THE DOCTOR SAYS

May Be Many Reasons Why Is Heart Enlarged?

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I would like to know what the doctor meant when he said I had an enlarged left ventricle in my heart. When I walk fast or hurry in other things I do, I get a tight feeling in the center of my chest and my heart beats too fast. Can this bring on a heart attack? There is no pain or hurting with this feeling, just a fast heart beat, tight feeling and hard beating. I am 66 years old, very active, and feel fine otherwise. Please explain what can happen.

Dear Reader—An enlarged heart can mean many things. A healthy young distance runner will have an enlarged heart as evidence of his high level of physical fitness. In this instance it is a good sign. It indicates that the volume of the heart is increased so that it can pump more blood when needed. Individuals in poor physical condition often have tiny hearts with limited capacity, unable to increase the amount of circulation for large amounts of physical activity.

An Observation
Watching the maiden voyage of Robert Fulton's successful sidewheel steamboat, one observer saw it as "an ungainly craft looking precisely like a backwoods sawmill mounted on a scow and set on fire."

blood to all of the body except the lungs. When blood pressure is measured, one is really measuring the pressure created by the pumping of the left ventricle.

A person who has high blood pressure often develops enlargement of the left ventricle because the left ventricle is working harder than the rest of the heart. The left ventricle can also enlarge if the person has disease of the coronary arteries to the heart muscle, such as fatty blockage, the disease which leads to heart attacks and chest pain.

Since I don't know whether you have a valve defect or whether you have high blood pressure or a problem of the arteries to your heart, it would be difficult for me to say exactly what your problem is. The sensation of tightness you described sounds like angina pectoris. It can occur in individuals who have high blood pressure or valve defects or disease of the heart chamber which pumps their coronary arteries. This is nature's signal that you are overdoing it. Stop and rest whenever this occurs. You should also limit your physical activities to just below the level that produces this, or perhaps your doctor will give you some nitroglycerin tablets which you can take just before increasing your physical activity.

I would also strongly suggest that if you have any excess body fat at all that you do your best to eliminate it by proper dietary means, specifically cutting down on your calories enough to start inducing a small but steady weight loss.

Whether or not your condition is likely to produce a heart attack depends a lot on what the underlying problem is, specifically whether you have valvular defects, high blood pressure or disease in the coronary arteries. All of these will benefit by losing weight if you are carrying any excess pounds around.

Becomes More Chemist than Cook

By JOY STILLEY
NEW YORK (AP) — I agreed to stand by him in sickness and in health—but nobody said anything about high cholesterol.

Though it wasn't spelled out in the marriage contract, when the doctor put my husband on a strict diet I became a chemist instead of a cook.

Model Members Of Silent Majority Increasingly Talking About Watergate

CENTRALIA, Ill. (AP) — It's about 700 miles from Washington's Watergate to the Centralia Motel. Two different worlds. There are no headlines about the building on North Poplar Street—a long, brick structure that stands out among the wooden houses and shops of this prairie town. No one stops and points. Its intrigues are the memories of traveling salesmen and secret lovers.

This is middle America, and things go on as they have. But increasingly these days, the people of Centralia, so-called model members of the silent majority, are talking about the Watergate and the scandal that has shaken the Nixon administration.

It is not topic No. 1. The St. Louis Cardinals' losing 12 of their first 13 games caused a great deal more excitement.

There is little outrage or indignation. But the subject keeps popping up, and people are wondering about it.
That was not the case last fall when Democrats tried to turn the bugging and burglary of the Democratic party's headquarters at the Watergate office-apartment complex into a campaign issue. The people of Centralia listened to questions about the morality of the administration, and their reaction seemed to be the popular one at the time: "It's something that everyone does."

On election day, they voted solidly for Richard M. Nixon. Today, Nixon does not appear to be in any great trouble with the voters of Centralia. But Ronald Tatarsky, a 28-year-old duplicating-machine salesman discussed his feelings as he and his young son fished in a pond near their apartment.

"I think the whole thing should have been opened up and exposed and forgotten," he said. "The whole basis of the Republican party is being undermined."

"I voted for Nixon myself. I personally feel that, since the election and since Nixon was voted in with such a landslide, Nixon got the idea that he could do whatever he damn well pleased."
Downtown in front of the J. C. Penney store, three young women telephone operators were selling homemade brownies, cookies and cupcakes for 15 cents each. The proceeds would go to a former operator whose six-month-old baby has cystic fibrosis.

"I'm just sitting back and watching and taking it all in," said one of the women. "I want to see the results of the investigations first. I figured it was just another campaign thing. But now I think there is more to be told than what has come out."

She said she wouldn't be surprised if it turned out that Nixon was involved. But she voted for the President in November and said she would probably do it again.

"I don't think it has anything to do with us," she said. "I'm just a small-town girl."
At the Pet Mart down the street, Mrs. Vernon Ellerbusch, 45, chatted about the case as she stocked shelves with chemical solutions used in fish bowls.

"As it goes the disclosures, I think this has been part of politics as long as there has been politics. The American people forget these kind of things," she said.

90 SR. CITIZENS OF ST. LOUIS VISIT WHITE HALL

WHITE HALL — A group of ninety Senior citizens, members of the Holly Hills Golden Age Group of St. Louis, Missouri, visited in the community Thursday, coming via two chartered buses.
Clinton C. Aydelott, who is the husband of the former Jennie Pratt, a White Hall resident, was in charge of the group.

A chicken pie dinner was served at noon to the large group at the First Christian church.

Members of the Harmony Class of the church had a large display of handmade articles, many of which were sold to the visitors.
They were taken on tours to the Roodhouse Envelope Company, the Drain Tile Co. and many of the ladies visited The Storm, a shop owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Greene.

CASH MISSING FROM V.F.W.

VFW Post on East Morton Road was reported to Morgan county authorities about 5:45 a.m. Monday.
A cleaning man discovered the break-in, but did not report what was missing.

Investigation showed that an undetermined amount of money was missing from the bar area of the club.
Rubber can be made so elastic that it will stretch more than nine times its normal length.

cents a pound.
An otherwise likely candidate for our larger goes back on the shelf when my magnifying glass reveals that the forbidden hydrogenated vegetable oil lurks among such innocuous ingredients as ferric orthophosphate, isopropyl citrate, pyridoxine and lecithin.

Fortunately, the food industry knows which side its shortening-free bread is margerined on, and has come up with look-alikes for some of the items that are off limits in low cholesterol diets.

Cream, a definite no-no, has all sorts of stand-ins, from pale powders that come in jars to liquids that hang out in small cardboard cartons and try to emulate their fatty cousins in looks and coffee-lightening activities.

Since egg yolks are packed chock full of cholesterol milligrams, my husband's over-easy breakfast piece de resistance has been eliminated.

However, all has not been lost. A substitute egg, which resembles the real thing in every way except cholesterol content, has appeared on the market. Thaw it, shake it, scramble it and, according to my resident ex-gourmet, it tastes so much like the original that even a mother hen would cluck tenderly over it.

The whole business does complicate breakfast production though. While I guiltily fry my fat-streaked bacon and misty-eyed egg and pamper my shortening-laced bread with butter, with the other hand I am parsimoniously placing margarine on toast and swirling what passes for eggs in a Teflon-coated pan.

The crunch will come some day when I mistake the little cardboard carton the fake egg comes in for the little cardboard carton the fake cream comes in and my eating partner ends up with ersatz egg in his coffee.

Oswald: "Defense is the hardest part of bridge. You have to try to cooperate with a partner against a declarer who is able to play both his hands."

Jim: "Of course, good defense looks so simple. Thus, when I watched this hand played in the Spring National it looked as if East and West had no problems at all. West opened the ace of clubs. East played the deuce. West led the four of hearts. East took his ace and returned the 10 of clubs. West ruffed and shifted to the three of diamonds. East took his ace and led back his lowest remaining club. West ruffed that; cashed his king of diamonds and led a heart. South was down two before he could get the lead."

Oswald: "It certainly looks easy, yet when we showed the hand to some very good players they all led a diamond at trick two. The heart lead practically insured that East would give his partner an immediate club ruff."

Jim: "West wound up proceedings for the defense by one more good play. He led a heart not a diamond. This made no difference, but if East had started with king and one trump and South with seven to the ace-queen-jack it would have insured a trump trick for East since East would have followed suit and South would have been forced to trump dummy's trick."

VIRGINIA — At the April meeting of the Virginia school board a new regulation was approved. This means that a child entering kindergarten at Virginia must be at least five years of age by Oct. 1st of the year for the fall school term instead of the previous date two months later, that of Dec. 1st.

At the meeting two new members were welcomed: Bernard Devlin from the Philadelphia township and William F. Harrison of Virginia township.
New officers for District 64 were elected, with William Huffman named president and Harry Devlin, secretary. A private session followed the open meeting.

Wheelchair Ease Planning Urged

OTTAWA (AP) — If architects, city planners and politicians had to spend a little time in wheelchairs, they would build buildings and plan cities that would be easier for everyone, says Tony Mann of Winnipeg, executive director of the Canadian Paraplegic Association.

A "totally accessible community" need not cost more if the planning for wheelchairs is considered from the first stages of any new development, he said here.

And the same conveniences that help an individual in a wheelchair also aid people with cardiac conditions, mothers pushing baby carriages, the elderly pulling grocery carts and thousands of those who are marginally handicapped and need canes or are slightly insecure on their feet.

"Even the completely fit person is inclined to walk up a wheelchair ramp rather than climb the stairs," he said.

Mann said there is a national building code with provisions that ensure that the rights of the handicapped are considered. But although these have been approved for years, many areas do not use them.

Mann, who has been confined to a wheelchair since a war injury in 1945, said architects and planners seem to love split levels.

"They'll put a ramp up the side of a building, then just inside the door there will be three steps. The person in a wheelchair will have to have help."

Such little things rob a wheelchair person of his independence, he said. Although he may be capable of getting around on his own, he may be prevented from working in many offices, for example, because the doorways aren't wide enough for him to go through.

Hotels have been criticized by paraplegics because they are poorly planned to accommodate wheelchairs. A recent visitor to Ottawa complained that in one hotel which advertised "wheelchair facilities" — meaning the doors were wide and the bathrooms large enough to admit wheelchairs easily — she had to enter through the kitchen to get to an elevator that was not blocked by steps.

Mann said the bellhops at that hotel, who must be forced to haul trunk carts up and down steps, also should complain.

"That's bad architectural planning," he added.
Advances in medicine mean that more and more handicapped individuals will be around, he said. Before World War II paraplegics, those paralyzed roughly from the waist down, had a life expectancy of only a few months.

Even 10 years ago the life expectancy of a paraplegic was considered to be only about five years, but now paraplegics can live — "and be independent if society gives them a chance" — nearly as long as the average individual.

If cities were better planned, wheelchair people could hold jobs instead of being unemployed, Mann said. If there were subsidies available, such as tax exemptions on cars with hand controls or on hearing aids, handicapped persons might be more independent.

Some progress is being made, he said. At least one school for architects now requires its students to spend a day or two confined to a wheelchair just to see how difficult most buildings are for the handicapped.

AGNEW FAVORED FOR PRESIDENTIAL NOMINATION IN '76

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew is the leading choice of 1976 GOP presidential nomination, according to the Gallup Poll.

In a survey of 798 Republicans released Sunday, Agnew was named by 35 per cent as their favorite for the nomination. Gov. Ronald Reagan of California was second with 20 per cent, and former Secretary of the Treasury John Connally had 15 per cent.

Connally, though a registered Democrat, is among those who have been mentioned as possible Republican candidates. He was active in President Nixon's re-election campaign last year. Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York was named by 11 per

Layoff Affects 88 At State Hospital

Eighty-eight employees at Jacksonville State Hospital have been notified by the Illinois Department of Personnel that they will no longer have jobs as of May 11. Eighty-six employees are being laid off, and two employees are being terminated, since their jobs do not fall under the state personnel code.

Employees who have been laid off may appeal the decision directly to Nolan Jones, director of the state Department of Personnel. This appeal must be in writing, and it must be submitted within 15 days of notification of the layoff. According to the rules of the Department of Personnel, the director shall again review and investigate the application of the personnel rules and the validity of the layoff. This appeal procedure was not given in the letter which notified each employee he would be laid off.

The original layoff plan, whose implementation was delayed by Governor Dan Walker March 21 in the wake of charges of procedural irregularities called for laying off 116 persons, according to Kerry Turner, personnel officer at Jacksonville State Hospital. He said Monday morning that 31 employees have voluntarily terminated their employment at the state hospital since April 1, so the number to be laid off had been reduced.

The state hospital employed 1,023 as of Friday, and the reduction due to the current layoffs will bring the number down to 935. Another layoff is reportedly being considered before the end of the current fiscal year, which is June 30. Mental Health Department officials refuse to comment on further layoff plans.

Those affected by the layoff will receive pay for vacation and accumulated holidays to which they are entitled, but they cannot collect payment for sick leave and personal days which they have accumulated. Hospital officials expect a high absentee rate the next two weeks among those affected by the layoff.

Laid off employees may also continue their group insurance if they want to pay their own premiums, according to Turner. Classifications from which employees will be laid off include: 29 mental health technicians II, 11 mental health technicians I, one pest control operator, five clerk-typists II, one medical records librarian, one apprentice pharmacist, three assistant alcoholism counselors, one stores clerk, one storekeeper, one seamstress, one x-ray technician, one property and supply clerk, one plant maintenance engineer, three methods and procedures advisers, one mental health rehabilitation workshop manager, one mental health rehabilitation supervisor, one mental health administrator I, one mental health administrator II, one mental health administrator IV, one meat cutter, one library associate, two duplicating machine operators, one data input operator I, one data input operator II, four clerk-typists I, one clerk-stenographer III, two clerk-stenographers II, three clerks I and one audiovisual technician.

Those terminated were a baker and a blacksmith. Also included in the reorganization plan were three demotions. Two nurses not working in direct-patient care were given the opportunity to take voluntary reductions to staff nursing positions, and a mental health administrator IV took a demotion to administrative assistant II.

Lamar Goes ABA, Conquistadors

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Dwight Lamar signed as a professional Monday with the San Diego Conquistadors of the American Basketball Association. The pact was described as "a multi-year contract covering six digits." Lamar, the first college player chosen in the ABA's draft last week, reportedly sought a three-year contract worth $600,000.

With his lawyer beside him, the 6-foot-1 guard from Southwestern Louisiana signed officially at a sportswriters' luncheon.

He had agreed earlier to play in the ABA.

His decision to turn pro was put off until he finished college, said Lamar, who was picked by Detroit in the third round of the National Basketball Association draft.

"I never considered playing in the NBA or the ABA," Lamar said. "I was concentrating entirely on my college career. When my college career was over, my attorney gave me the advice that I needed and we subsequently agreed with the ABA to play in that league."

Nixon

Now, in a new time of political trauma, Nixon vowed that he would not place the blame on subordinates to whom he delegated responsibility for his 1972 campaign.

Indeed, he praised the federal judge and the free press that discovered the intrigue behind the June 17 incident at Democratic Party headquarters in the Watergate office building.

He said the case represented a series of illegal acts, bad judgments, over zealotness by a number of individuals.

"America in its political campaigns must never again fall into the trap of letting the end, no matter how great that end is, justify the means," Nixon said.

With that he called for political reforms, "a new set of standards," to ensure that future campaigns be as free of abuses as possible.

He made no specific proposals, but he has assigned Richardson the task of determining what specific changes in federal campaign laws are necessary.

Earlier in the day, Nixon had said that Haldeman and Ehrlichman "were two of my closest friends and trusted assistants."

He said Kleindienst believed he could not continue as attorney general because it appears close associates may be implicated in the Watergate inquiry.

Kleindienst already had withdrawn from the case, on the same grounds.

Senate sources have accused Haldeman and Ehrlichman of involvement in an alleged White House attempt to cover up the Watergate wiretapping affair.

Nixon said the resignations should not be interpreted as evidence of wrongdoing by either one.

The President said he had asked for the resignation of Dean, who reportedly has been accused of helping to plan the wiretapping raid on Democratic headquarters.

Nixon said that pending Richardson's confirmation by the Senate to become attorney general, "I have asked him to involve himself immediately in the investigative processes surrounding the Watergate matter."

As attorney general, Nixon said, Richardson will have full responsibility for coordinating "all federal agencies in uncovering the whole truth about this matter," and recommending changes in federal law to prevent future campaign abuses.

Kleindienst is to remain at the Justice Department and Richardson at the Pentagon until the defense secretary is confirmed as attorney general.

The announcement of the personnel shakeup, at the pinnacle of government, followed a weekend of seclusion for the President in which he talked at Camp David, Md., with Haldeman and Ehrlichman, respectively his chief of staff and assistant for domestic affairs.

Haldeman, 46, regarded as the most powerful man on the White House staff, said in a statement that it had become "virtually impossible... for me to carry on my regular responsibilities in the White House" because of what he called allegations, innuendos and a "flood of stories arising every day from all sorts of sources."

Ehrlichman, 48, has remained relatively untouched by recent Watergate disclosures until last week when it was disclosed acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray III destroyed sensitive documents given him by Ehrlichman and Dean. Gray resigned last Friday, hours after that report was published.

The documents were said to include forged cables linking the late President John F. Kennedy to the 1963 assassination of South Vietnamese chief of state Ngo Dinh Diem.

In his letter to the President, Ehrlichman wrote of "repeated rumors, unfounded charges or implications or whatever the media carries."

He denied reports linking him to intervention on behalf of accused financial swindler Robert L. Vesco in a Lebanese banking deal and said, "Regardless of the actual facts, I have been a target of public attack."

Such attacks, he wrote Nixon, have impaired "my present usefulness to you and ability to discharge my duties."

Nixon's dismissal was covered in one Nixon sentence: "I have today requested and accepted the resignation of John W. Dean III from his position on the staff as White House counsel."

Richardson issued a statement saying he was accepting the new appointment "because I believe I have an overriding duty to do so." He said he will have no further comment until the Senate confirms him for the Justice Department job.

Kleindienst is a close friend of former Atty. Gen. John Mitchell, who has acknowledged bugging plans were discussed in his presence—although he said he had not approved them.

The Watergate affair unfolded by stages—the latest beginning with President Nixon's announcement April 17 that there were major developments in the case.

The first stage concluded Jan. 30 with the conviction of James W. McCord Jr. and G. Gordon Liddy on charges of conspiracy, burglary and wiretapping. Five men had pleaded guilty earlier to the same charges.

On March 23, when he sentenced Liddy to a prison term of 60 years, Federal Judge John J. Sirica disclosed a letter by McCord that claimed political pressure had been applied to keep the seven defendants silent, that there was perjury at the trial and that others were involved.

McCord then began testifying—before a Senate committee, a federal grand jury and in depositions for civil suits stemming from Watergate break-in.

Acting on his disclosures, federal prosecutors called Jeb Stuart Magruder, the No. 2 man in the Committee for the Re-election of the President. He reportedly said that he, Dean and Mitchell were involved in planning the bugging and, later, payoffs to buy silence from the Watergate seven.

On the day of Nixon's announcement, Haldeman and Ehrlichman retained an attorney, John J. Wilson, who since has met twice with the President and also with the federal prosecutors in the case.

On April 19, Dean bypassed regular White House channels and announced he would not be made a scapegoat in the case.

The following day Nixon met with his Cabinet, vowing, sources said, "to get to the bottom" of the scandal.

Easter Sunday he telephoned Dean, Haldeman and Ehrlichman and wished them happy Easter. He reportedly told Dean "you're still counsel to the President."

Two major resignations preceded those announced Monday. Gray resigned last Friday. So did Magruder, Mitchell's deputy in the campaign and later director of the inaugural committee, who quit a $36,000-a-year job at the Commerce Department.

In other Watergate developments, McCord spent the day giving a deposition in civil suits growing out of the Watergate affair.

In Los Angeles, at the Pentagon Papers trial, Daniel Ellsberg's chief attorney asked that Gray, Dean and convicted conspirators E. Howard Hunt and Liddy testify about an alleged burglary of Ellsberg's psychiatrist's office. The judge indicated he would prefer to take sworn affidavits.

The White House confirmed that the trial judge, William Mathew Byrne, has been sounded out as a possible candidate for director of the FBI.

Colonels Decline To Protest Game With Indiana

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The Kentucky Colonels said Monday that a violation called against Kentucky in Saturday's American Basketball Association playoff game with the Indiana Pacers was an officials' error.

They also said they would not officially protest the game.

In a statement issued Monday afternoon, Colonels officials said, "We have reviewed the video tape of Saturday's game between the Colonels and Pacers and have determined that the three-second violation against Kentucky with 2:01 remaining in the third quarter was an obvious error by the officials."

"However, in light of the fact that it is a judgment call which supersedes our own determination regardless of its validity — we have decided to forego our intentions to officially protest the game," the statement added.

"There is, in fact, no recourse in a judgment call and, with reluctance, we must therefore accept the officials' ruling."

The Colonels had announced Saturday that they were playing the game under protest after referee Norm Drucker whistled center Artis Gilmore for a three-second lane violation. The Pacers won the first game of the best-of-seven series 111-107.

STOLEN AUTO FOUND SUNDAY

Theft of an auto, and its quick recovery by city police, occurred early Sunday morning.

A call from a resident at the Beecher High Rise notified police a car was parked in the lot which did not belong there. The car's tail lights were blinking at the time police arrived and two subjects were seen running from the area.

Police then contacted the owner, James M. Galloway, 841 West Morton Ave., Lot 79, and had the vehicle towed to the city police department for processing of fingerprints.

It is believed the car was taken from in front of the Galloway trailer shortly before 5 a.m. Sunday. The investigation continues.

Business — Market Wrapup

Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Piercing through the somber, droning monotone of grumbling and discontent over the high cost of living, each year there is heard the shrill laughter of America at play.

Which is to say that despite constant concern about making ends meet, Americans never lose their enthusiasm for a good time. This year they plan the best times yet, costs notwithstanding.

Not even the dollar devaluation is likely to slow travel, and early estimates based on surveys and passport applications indicate more than eight million Americans will travel abroad in 1973, compared with 7.4 million last year.

Such an increase would not be unusual. Between 1960 and 1971 foreign travel by Americans rose 153 per cent, and together with domestic travel now accounts for expenditures of roughly $45 billion a year, says the Conference Board.

While some people are traveling from place to place, others will occupy their free time riding up and sliding down hills or boating or chasing balls. Skiing has grown from 50,000 participants in the 1940s to 4.5 million now.

More people than ever before will be bicycling, unless those 9.6 million bikes sold in 1972 — an increase of 13 per cent over 1971 — represents more the resolution than the execution of those who planned to exercise.

Others will be taking to the road in larger vehicles. Camping is growing in popularity, which probably accounts for the fact that there are now about four million campers, motor homes, trailers and related vehicles on the road.

Most of these figures are from a study by the Conference Board, a nonprofit research organization largely supported by business, which reports that Americans are in the midst of a leisure boom.

Recreational and leisure time spending, it claims, now exceeds $80 billion a year, and is rising each year. These are some of the percentage increases between 1960 and 1971:

Radio, television, records and musical instruments 186; books and magazines 185; personal consumption expenditures 104; admissions to legitimate theater, opera and entertainment of nonprofit institutions 101.

The study shows that more than 80 million Americans participate in picnicking, more than 70 million in swimming, 60 million in games and sports, and a like number in attending sports events and concerts.

Rising incomes and more available leisure time are making such pursuits possible.

Nearly 25 per cent of families have incomes of $15,000 or more, the Conference Board says, and the number of families in the 25-to-34-year-old age group who make that amount is growing rapidly.

The leisure time is made available not so much by changes in the length of the work week, which has remained stable in the past decade, but by an increase in the length of the average vacation from 1.8 weeks to 2.2 weeks, and to recent federal legislation assuring five long holiday weekends.

Always looking for trends, especially those that can be turned to profit, Wall Street stock analysts are promoting shares of some of the well known scheduled and charter airlines and many of the hotel-motel corporations.

New Mortgage Financing

By CARLTON SMITH

A new wrinkle in mortgage financing is making it possible for couples with good credit, but not much cash, to get around that hurdle of the down payment.

What are your chances for example, of buying a $30,000 house with a $1,500 down payment? Not too long ago, the correct answer would have been, "Near zero." Today, something called private mortgage insurance is making such low-cash down payments possible for many couples.

Mortgage lenders currently offer 70 per cent financing or better — up to 80 per cent even. To the buyer of a $30,000 house, that means coming up with $6,000 to $9,000 cash — a stopper for many families.

"Conventional" loans — those made by a private lender and not insured by F.H.A. or V.A. are generally limited to this percentage range for two reasons. Federal regulations enter into it, to some extent. Mostly it's the risk involved in high-ratio loans. Individual lenders aren't set up to assume that much risk.

Private mortgage insurance is similar to F.H.A. insurance. Both insure the "top end" of the loan. For example a lender offers 70 per cent financing on a $30,000 house — a loan of $21,000. A private mortgage may then agree to insure the "top 25 per cent" of a larger loan. This stretches the loan from 70 per cent to 95. The spread between $21,000 and $28,500 is insured, leaving the lender with his original $21,000 or 70 per cent risk.

Such insurance adds to the home buyer's costs, of course. "It's taken out by the lender but paid for by the purchaser," explains Jackson W. Goss, president of Investors Mortgage Insurance Company in Boston.

In the example above, there would be a first-year charge of 1 per cent of the amount of the loan — $285 — plus a $20 appraisal fee. This can be paid in a lump sum, or spread over the life of the loan. After the first year, the cost of insurance drops to 1/4 of one per cent, on the balance of the loan.

Private mortgage insurance, Goss maintains, has several advantages over F.H.A. "Private insurance remains in effect only until the balance of the loan drops down to the original commitment on the loan" — in the example above, until the loan is paid down to $21,000.

"It's usually in effect for only seven to ten years," Goss says, "while F.H.A. insurance remains in effect for the entire life of the loan. And the charge for F.H.A. insurance is a flat one-half of one per cent, rather than the one-quarter per cent of private insurance."

Other old crop beans advanced the limit of 15 cents and meal $5 a ton. New crop options in the three pits were weak.

A strong demand continues for meal at the cash level. The Rotterdam price last weekend reportedly touched $300 a ton.

The demand for futures in beans and meal was very strong here, but sellers were very reluctant to enter bids. As a result, prices leaped 2, 4 and 5 cents in May soybeans and $5 a ton in May meal.

The demand was strong too for wheat and corn futures, especially in new crop options. Corn advanced 5 cents and wheat about 2 cents. Then local professionals took profits and prices in the corn pit were halved while losses were posted in wheat.

Oats trade was very light and prices moved in a narrow range. Gains of around 1/4 cent a pound were posted in the iced broiler pit in very slow trade.

After about an hour, crop soybeans were up 30 cents a bushel May 7.29; wheat was 1/4 to 1/2 lower, May 2.42; corn was 1/4 to 3/4 higher, May 1.62 and oats were 1/4 to 3/4 higher, May (new) 90 1/2 cents.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices closed slightly down Monday as major market indicators hit new lows for the year, reflecting continued uncertainty about inflation and gloomy news from Washington over the Watergate scandal.

The market was sharply lower in the morning, then made a partial recovery after the announcement of the firing of one high administration official and the resignation of three others, all in connection with the Watergate scandal.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials finished the day down 0.76 at 121.43, its lowest since July 21, 1972 when it closed at 120.45.

The previous low for the year came Friday, with the close at 122.19, down more than 40 points for the week.

Analysts said the Watergate announcement had brought a temporary halt to the morning's steeply declining prices as investors hoped for some sort of resolution of the situation.

Monte Gordon of Dreyfus Corp. said, "Investors are hoping that the President will be able to return his attention to the economic picture."

But Martin I. Goodfriend of Bruns, Nordeman & Co. added that the announcement meant little more than a temporary reversal in an otherwise downward trend unless the administration took firm action to stem inflationary trends.

The announcement brought prices to the plus side during the day, but they turned downward later.

The New York Stock Exchange average of some 1,500 common shares closed down .13 at 56.73, its low for the year and its lowest point since Jan. 4, 1972, when it was 56.44. The previous low for the year was Friday when it was 56.86.

Also at a new low for the year was the American Stock Exchange price-change index, down .08 at 23.49. Its previous low was 23.47 on Nov. 24, 1971. Its previous low for the year also was Friday when it closed at 23.57.

On the Over-the-Counter market, the NASDAQ composite index was down .55 at 107.85.

On the Big Board declines beat out advances 826 to 596 in a slow 14.82-million-share trading volume.

State Department Of Insurance May Liquidate Eleven Companies

CHICAGO (AP) — The Illinois Department of Insurance has threatened to seek liquidation of 11 insurance companies, including some of the largest in the state.

Fred A. Mauck, director of the department, charged at a news conference Sunday that the 11 companies are subsidiaries of out-of-state firms and were set up as corporations in Illinois to avoid a two per cent tax on out-of-state premiums.

Mauck said the companies, although they maintained legal corporate offices in Illinois, were directed by their main corporate offices in other states. The main offices also kept the corporate records, Mauck said.

The companies are: General Casualty Co. of Illinois; INA Insurance Co. of Illinois; National Surety Co.; International Insurance Co.; Royal Globe Insurance Co. of Illinois; St. Paul Insurance Co. of Illinois; Aetna Casualty and Insurance Co. of Illinois; The Travelers Indemnity Co. of Illinois, and Liberty Mortgage Insurance Corp.

Mauck said the state insurance code requires companies to maintain their principal offices, their principal places of business and original books, records, accounts and vouchers in Illinois.

He said the companies have six months either to begin to pay the two per cent tax or to move the main office here. The 11 companies collected $416 million in premiums last year, he said.

Mauck said revenue from the tax has decreased from $66 million in 1970 to $47 million last year despite an increase in insurance volume. The loss of revenue was one reason he decided to act, he said.

Another factor, he said, was the recent Equity Funding case, in which the company allegedly wrote thousands of phony insurance policies.

If the books of the companies are in the state, it will be easier to audit a company, Mauck said.

'A Splendid Little War' (6)

By Don Oakley and Ed Kudlety

War has commenced between the United States and Spain. Proceed at once to Philippine Islands. Commence operations at once, particularly against the Spanish fleet. You must capture vessels or destroy. Use utmost endeavors.

The message sped from the Navy Department to Commodore, soon to be Admiral, George Dewey at Hong Kong. The Asiatic Squadron was ready. The protected (armored) cruisers Olympia, Baltimore, Raleigh and Boston, the unprotected cruiser Concord and three smaller vessels set out across the China Sea. On the night of Apr. 30, 1898, they slipped past Corregidor.

Admiral Patricio Montojo y Pasaron, fully confident of defeat, had placed his 10 antiquated and outgunned ships before the Cavite navy yard to spare Manila from stray American shells.

As dawn broke on May 1, the American ships in column formation approached the enemy. "You may fire when ready, Gridley," the calm Dewey said to the Olympia's captain.

Five times the American line passed before the Spaniards, guns blazing, each time narrowing the distance. The return fire was heavy but ineffective. Smoke from the black powder the guns were using soon obscured the scene of battle.

A garbled report to the flagship revealed that the American guns were down to 15 rounds. Dewey broke off the engagement to assess the situation and to allow the crews to take breakfast. He learned that only 15 rounds had been expended per gun.

At 11:16 a.m., Dewey resumed the attack against what was left of the Spanish fleet and shore batteries. By noon the last Spanish flags came down.

It was one of the most lopsided victories in naval history. American casualties were two officers and six men slightly injured and one dead—from a heart attack. The Spanish had lost 167 dead and 214 wounded.

In seven hours, Dewey had destroyed half of Spain's naval strength and ended 400 years of empire in the Pacific. The nation was dazzled when the news finally came. But as Washington soon realized, Dewey had no power to follow up the victory on the Philippines, where an insurrection led by Filipino patriot Emilio Aguinaldo was taking place.

NEA Women's Editor
NEW YORK (NEA)—"Teaching is communication. And music makes communication easier."
This is the basic philosophy that Ella Jenkins brings to educators in her two music workshops, "Adventures in Music" and "Adventures in Rhythm." The American Music Conference recently cited Miss Jenkins for her innovative teaching techniques. They are creative and interesting.

Preschoolers Tawani, Alan and Kellie make music with Ella Jenkins, visiting their Headstart Class in Evanston, Ill.

"Children are surrounded by music every day—at home, in church, in stores, even in the streets," she said. "The teacher can build on this musical experience and use it to advantage in all aspects of class work."

Her workshops consist of a "sample" class during which she demonstrates how to involve the child in music. This is followed by discussions with educators assuming the roles of students. These techniques include teaching them how to play simple rhythm instruments, rhyming and counting songs, discussions of the instruments they are playing and some cultural information.

A composer, arranger and musician equally adept on guitar, ukulele and drums, Miss

Jenkins is also in demand for concerts. But her major efforts are expanded in presenting clinics and workshops for teachers, administrators and civic leaders involved in Headstart and kindergarten programs.

"Children love to make music," she said. "They become involved in sharing musical experiences with their classmates and receive satisfaction from being able to create pleasant sounds."

"More than this," she added, "music offers the teacher an opportunity to enrich the child's entire school experience."

Ella Jenkins cited this example for kindergartners or preschoolers: "I often recommend that teachers introduce instruments to children one at a time. Begin with the rhythm sticks which they all get a chance to master. Then bring in a set of maracas. Each child has the opportunity to touch them, try them out for sound, learn their name and then pass them on to the next youngster."

She explained that when the new instruments are combined with those the boys and girls already play, the class has a varied sound and the beginning of a rhythm band.

Soft-spoken, warm and outgoing, Ella stresses the importance of a teacher's relationship to her youngsters to stimulate their thinking about what they are learning and to broaden their knowledge beyond the classroom walls.

"I would like to have all participants in my clinics leave with so many new ideas that they want to try new methods and bring in new resources. I want to challenge their own imaginations so that they can make learning an interesting and enjoyable experience for every member of the class."

Miss Jenkins believes that field trips are essential. "A teacher can enhance a child's appreciation of music by taking the class to a music store. There children can see instruments of all types from all over the world. The teacher should arrange a demonstration of how they are played and the sounds they make."

"Back in the classroom she can have pictures of the instruments in use and the different situations in which they are used. And if it can be arranged, they should be taken to a factory to see how the instruments are made."

"I try to get the children to use themselves in the music lesson," Ella said, "to snap their fingers, to hop, skip, clap, hit the drums—to move freely."

A graduate sociologist from San Francisco State, Miss Jenkins returned to Chicago (where she grew up) in 1952 to direct the YMCA teen program and work with community groups. She also did frequent appearances on the Totem Club show then seen on Chicago's educational TV station.

Educators who accompanied the children to those early programs and saw her efforts reflected in the youngsters' enthusiasm asked her to present similar live demonstrations in their schools for other faculty members. And about 16 years ago she found that these requests were becoming frequent enough to warrant total devotion to this project. She left the YMCA to become a full-time music education clinician.

"One of the major points that I stress in all my clinics and workshops," she said, "is that teachers must share in the learning experience. If they enjoy what they are doing the children will, too."

Miss Jenkins believes that music enhances living and it's up to the teacher to make learning a challenging and enjoyable process of every day of school life.

Wherever you move... Call the Welcome Wagon hostess. She will bring her basket of gifts and friendly greetings from civic and business neighbors of the community.

CLOTHES CARE TODAY

By RUTH E. HOWARD

Harmony. If a design has a pleasing center of interest, is in good proportion, is well-balanced, and has a phasing sense of rhythm, then the design will have harmony. Harmony is an agreement between the various parts of a design, making everything seem to belong together.

For a dress to be in harmony, the different parts—such as the waist, skirt, collar, pockets, belt and trimming—must all seem to belong together. If your dress has a pointed collar, your pockets and belt should be pointed, rather than one being pointed and the other square—cornered. The same is true with the trimmings for a dress. Round buttons call for a round buckle, not a square one.

Your dress must harmonize not only in lines and shapes, but also in texture and color. If you are wearing a soft rayon crepe dress, wear a soft wool coat or a soft angora shawl with it, not a leather coat, because to have harmony the textures of your clothes you have on could be suited to one another.

The texture of the material must also be suited to one another. Also the colors should harmonize with your personality and coloring.

HOWARDS, 121 S. EAST ST., will give you harmony in your life by professionally cleaning your clothes by our Sanitone process. We serve over 30 communities in this area because HOWARDS has all the modern facilities—even free pick up and delivery. We are open from 7:15 to 5:15 Mon. thru Sat.

PERRY — The host Pioneers came with four runs in the bottom of the sixth and earned a PMSC conference victory by trimming Bluffs 4-3 in baseball action Monday afternoon.

Bluffs took a three-run lead into the sixth frame, but a walk, a double by Dave Elledge, three more walks and a two-RBI single by Scott Whittaker boosted Perry to the win.

Whittaker led the winners at the plate with three safeties while Elledge added a pair of hits. For Bluffs, Randy Barnett was top hitter with two singles, and Kerry Griner added a roundtripper.

Rick Curfman took the mound win, fanning nine and walking only one to up Perry's record to 6-2 and 3-2 in loop action. Kaufman whiffed six but walked seven in taking the loss.

Russians Knot Series, 78-76

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Russia's basketball forces evened their series against the United States national team with a 78-76 victory Monday night in a rugged battle at the San Diego Sports Arena in which the lead changed hands 15 times.

A field goal by Aleksander Boloshev and two free throws by Jack Salumets provided the points the Russians needed for victory. The U.S. team's final second shot by Jim Oxley of the Military Academy just missed tying the count.

The United States won the opening game Sunday night at Inglewood, Calif. 83-65.

The United States played without Bill Walton, the national collegiate player of the year from UCLA, who suffered a knee injury in the opening game and did not suit up for the second contest.

The rough battle saw three Russians foul out and Bobby Jones of North Carolina also collect five personals. Ron Behagen of Minnesota was tossed out of the game by referee Marti Huhtamaki of Finland, who charged Behagen had purposely elbowed a Russian player.

U.S. Coach Bob Cousy drew a technical foul for objecting too violently to a call in the first half.

With 7:50 to play the Russians led 68-61. Cousy then sent in a three-guard offense of George Karl of North Carolina, Tom Henderson of Hawaii and Oxley.

The ex-West Pointer started a rally with a field goal and the Americans rattled off eight straight points to go ahead 70-68 before Aleksander Salnikov sank a basket tying the count.

Aleksander Belov, whose basket won the Olympic basketball title for Russia from the United States in Munich, put the USSR ahead with two free throws before fouling out with 17 points. He was the high scorer for the Russians.

Ivan Dvornik and Salnikov each tallied 16.

Dvornik fouled out early in the second half and Mikhail Korotkiy also was charged with five fouls.

Ernie DiGregorio scored 15 to lead the losers but the Providence star also threw away the ball in the final 30 seconds, costing the U.S. a chance to tie the score.

Karl scored 12 and Swen Nater, who understudied Walton at UCLA, tallied 11 even after missing his first five tries.

After Belov fouled out, Oxley knotted the count with a field goal but Ivan Edeshko sank a field goal to put the Russians ahead 74-72.

Then Henderson hit from the side and Oxley banked in a field goal, providing the Yanks with a 76-74 lead, before Boloshev and Salumets wound up the scoring.

With the six-game series tied at one apiece, the teams will next play Wednesday in Albuquerque, N.M.

Gilmore Boosts Colonels, 114-102

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Artis Gilmore led all scorers with 29 points and dominated the backboards Monday night to give the Kentucky Colonels a 114-102 victory over the Indiana Pacers, evening their American Basketball Association playoff series at 1-1.

The Colonels led most of the way and outscored Indiana 35-22 in the final quarter for the win.

Dan Issel of the Colonels scored 20 points in the first half as Kentucky took a 57-47 advantage. He finished with 28.

George McGinnis, scoring well inside, led Indiana with 28 points.

Indiana fell behind by as much as 18 points in the first half and took the lead for the first time at 80-78 near the end of the third quarter.

Two baskets by Walt Simon gave the Colonels the lead at 85-83 early in the fourth quarter and the Eastern Division champions never trailed again.

Freddie Lewis tied the score with a layup but then Gilmore, who finished with 26 rebounds, connected on a jump shot and Kentucky reeled off three more baskets.

From that point, Kentucky led by at least six points. Kentucky's advantage reached the final margin of 12 points several times in the late going.

Rick Mount, after scoring 11 points for Kentucky in the early going, left the game with a sprained ankle. His status for the remaining playoff games was uncertain.

Lewis scored 19 of his 20 points for the Pacers in the second half and teammate Roger Brown had 15.

Indiana center Mel Daniels, bothered by a sprained back suffered in pre-game warmups Monday night, finished with 13 points and 16 rebounds.

The Colonels outshot the Western Division champions 48.9 per cent to 39.4 per cent. The rebounds were even at 58 for each team.

Gilmore, who led the ABA in three categories including shooting percentage during the regular season, connected on 11 of 16 field goal attempts.

ASTROS WIN PAIR
Armstrong Jr. High had little trouble in notching a pair of victories as it defeated Illini and Beardstown in Class A and B track meets at the JHS athletic field Monday.

In Class A action, Armstrong won with 88, Illini had 33 and Beardstown came up with 15 points.

Steve Scobbie and Harold Stewart each captured a pair of firsts to lead the winners, Scobbie winning the shot put and hurdles while Stewart took the 300 and broad jump. Jeff Wagner added a first in the discus, Greg Lovick took the high jump, Mike Richards was first in the 50, Tom Landis took the 100 and Claude Rattler the 220.

In Class B competition, Armstrong won with a 66½ total, followed by Illini with 30 and Beardstown with 29½.

Cedric Jackson won the 440, shot put and discus, Gary Silville was first in the 100 and 220, and Jeff Richardson won the 50.

ROUTT GAME CHANGED
The Routt-Quincy Catholic Boys baseball game, originally scheduled to be played this evening at the Pony Colt park, has been switched to the JHS field.

The Routt game will start immediately following the JHS-Quincy Catholic Boys contest slated for this afternoon.

War Of Nerves On For 99th Derby

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The war of nerves began in earnest Monday for the 99th Kentucky Derby with some hard feelings and some heartbreak.

Frank "Pancho" Martin, squatting beside the barn where he stables his Derby pair of Sham and Knightly Dawn, was still angry at Lucien Laurin — and made no bones about it.

"We were friends for 15 to 18 years and never did I make any remark about him," Martin said. "He calls me a thief. I didn't call him a thief."

Martin referred to a published story before last week's Wood Memorial in New York where Laurin was quoted as saying nobody could beat his Secretariat "unless they steal the race."

In racing terms, there's nothing at all wrong with "stealing" a race. That simply means putting a horse with early speed into a long race to force the early pace.

Martin, however, took the remark to heart. "I'll never speak to him again," he said.

A few barns away, trainer Forrest Kaelin had tears in his eyes when he announced that Vodka would have to pass up Saturday's Derby because of a colic attack.

"That attack was just harder on the horse than I thought it was," Kaelin said as his first shot at America's most famed race faded away.

"It's tough to take because you never know if you'll ever get another horse of Derby caliber," he added.

The Meadow Stable's Secretariat, first odds-on Derby future book choice in history, races as a team with Edwin Whittaker's Angle Light. Both are trained by Laurin.

Angle Light, however, turned the tables in the Wood Memorial, scoring by a head over Sham with Secretariat a badly beaten third.

Although the talk centers on these three, more and more is being heard of Our Native, the Flamingo winner who has been first or second in seven of his nine starts this year.

"He's just such a consistent horse," his trainer and partowner, Bill Ressegut Jr., said as he grazed the $44,000 yearling purchase outside his Churchill Downs barn. "He's just like a cannon. When you pull the string, you know he's going to explode."

Another threat is Mrs. Robert Feinberg's Impetuous, the Arkansas Derby winner who has been in the money in all of his four starts this year.

Brewer Signs Rich Contract

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Cavaliers, outbidding 14 rival National Basketball Association teams and the New York Nets of the American Basketball Association, signed University of Minnesota center Jim Brewer to a multiyear, million-dollar contract Monday.

Now, if Brewer, a high school standout from Proviso East in suburban Chicago, can play basketball as well as the man he idolized when he was a youngster, the Cavaliers will have solved one of their major problems.

The 6-foot-9, 220-pound pivot man says he looked up to former Boston Celtics great Bill Russell because "he did everything you needed to do to win."

"Jim has the intangible qualities all winners have," said Cleveland Coach-General Manager Bill Fitch. "With him in the lineup you'll get a lot of rebounds."

Fitch, who recruited Brewer out of high school for Minnesota, gambled he could sign the muscular college player last week when he traded starters John Johnson and center Rick Roberson to the Portland Trail Blazers for the chance to draft Brewer.

The Cavaliers paid a steep price, both in players and money, but Fitch said "if a player's worth the money" he should get it.

"No matter how many dollars you give Jim," said Fitch, "you can't spoil him."

"I think he's the man to do the job for us and Jim thinks he's the man to do the job...and that's even more important."

Brewer's main attorney, Louis Schaffel, said Brewer has "already walked through the door" to becoming a millionaire and that the contract, in excess of three years, "is the best contract there will be this year.

"No one will approach it," said Schaffel. "I should hope Bill Walton (UCLA's heralded center) would do as well."

Brewer said he chose to play with the Cavaliers, because "I know more about Bill Fitch than I would about any other coach. I know and trust him. I knew he would consider my accomplishments."

Brewer also said that he chose the NBA, because it's "a more established league...it's first class."

Brewer, labeled by Fitch as "an unselfish player who goes hard at both ends of the court," said he felt he could contribute most to the Cavaliers with his defense and rebounding.

"I have to believe I can start," Brewer said. "But I expect to have to win the job. I'm looking forward to learning a lot and facing the challenge."

Brewer said rebounding is "80 per cent hard work and 20 per cent knowhow," and that he drives himself to perfection in this area by "getting mad every time I miss one."

"I'm ready to play. I want to start earning my salary."

Pony Tryouts This Weekend

Tryouts for Pony League play will be held this weekend at the Pony-Colt Park on Saturday and Sunday, beginning at 1 p.m. on both days.

Boys 13-14 years of age are eligible for Pony League competition.

A manager's spot in both the Pony and Colt league is still open, and anyone interested in filling a position should get in touch with Don Huston or Chuck Lockman as soon as possible.

Carlton: I'm Not The Next Koufax

CINCINNATI (AP) — "I'm not the next Sandy Koufax," Steve Carlton said. "The words came coldly."

But the comparisons keep coming, as Carlton, already a week ahead of his winning pace of last year when he won 27 games, bids to become the National League's first 30-game winner in 40 years. Diszy Dean was 30-7 for the St. Louis Cardinals in 1934.

The shadow of Koufax has been hard to shake.

It started in 1965, when the Cardinals issued Carlton uniform No. 32, the same as the Los Angeles Dodgers' great pitcher, and heralded him as "the next Koufax."

"I didn't ask for the number," he says. "They just gave it to me."

Traded to the Philadelphia Phillies after holdout problems, Carlton won the league's Cy Young Award last year for his 27 victories — nearly half the Phil's victories — and tied an all-time victory record for a left-hander. The other outpaw to win 27? Koufax.

"The records mean nothing," said Carlton, who, at 28, is considered in a pitcher's prime years. "I've just got one goal: win. After that, everything else takes care of itself," he said.

Carlton's style and second straight 20-victory season aren't the only things reminiscent of Koufax. There is his speed.

He's already in the record book ahead of Koufax for most strikeouts (19) in a nine-inning game. He and Tom Seaver of the New York Mets share that mark. Koufax fanned 18 twice, before his retirement in 1966.

Carlton and Koufax, who never faced each other on the mound, are the only National League pitchers to surpass the 300-strikeout level since 1900.

Koufax, who holds the all-time mark of 382 for a season, passed 300 three times. Carlton did it last year with 310.

Carlton's four-hit 3-1 victory over the defending National League champion Cincinnati Reds Friday night lowered his earned run average to 2.47 this season. He won the ERA crown last year with a 1.98 mark.

His fourth victory last year did not come until May 3. Phil's Manager Danny Ozark, who was with the Dodgers almost 30 years and watched Koufax develop, says Carlton has "the same intestinal fortitude Sandy had and the tremendous stamina. And he's got the slider, which Koufax never had."

Pat Kelly [Who?] Leads Hitting Race

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Playing on a team that includes such stars as Dick Allen and Wilbur Wood and being the brother of National Football League star Leroy Kelly doesn't make it easy to get recognition.

But Pat Kelly of the Chicago White Sox is speaking softly and carrying a big stick.

The soft-spoken Chicago outfielder was the leading hitter in the major leagues, with a .486 average on 18 hits in 37 at-bats through Monday.

The White Sox' leadoff hitter had a more than 100-point lead over his nearest rival, catcher Thurman Munson of the New York Yankees, after the first 3½ weeks of the American League season. Munson, hitting .382, was the runner-up, three points ahead of catcher Carlton Fisk of the Boston Red Sox.

Outfielders occupied the first three places in the National League batting derby, with Ron Fairly of Montreal the leader at .429, followed by Gary Madcox of San Francisco at .392 and Willie Stargell of Pittsburgh at .383.

Kelly, one of the main cogs in the White Sox' early surge to first place in the American League West, also got off to a fast start last year, hitting .327 through May, before slackening off and finishing with a .261 average.

"I don't put too much emphasis on statistics," Kelly said, "but I don't see why I shouldn't be able to keep hitting. Sometimes I feel like I'm just beginning to learn what it's all about."

He attributed his improvement to a change in batting style. Instead of taking a hard swing, he choked up on the bat, shortening his stroke.

"I realized I was just hurting myself by swinging for the fences," he explained. "I had no idea of the strike zone, either."

Lakers Get Wish, Will Meet Knicks

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The defending champion Los Angeles Lakers got their wish when the New York Knicks scratched their way into the National Basketball Association championships—but things could be different from last year.

Los Angeles and New York open the best-of-seven playoff finals Tuesday night before a capacity crowd at the Forum with the Lakers hoping to duplicate their victory of 1972.

They beat the Knicks four games to one to capture their first title since moving to Los Angeles from Minneapolis in 1960. And they hoped the Boston Celtics wouldn't win in the East this time.

During the regular season, the Celtics had a 4-0 edge over the defending champions, who were 2-2 against New York.

"I think we would have beaten the Celtics," said Laker star Jerry West. "I think we can beat any team. But the home advantage means a lot—especially if there is a seventh game. I can still remember that seventh game we played in New York three years ago."

The Knicks beat the Lakers 113-99 in that one to win the title.

During the regular season, the Lakers posted a 60-22 record and the Knicks were 57-25. The better record gets the home-court advantage. Boston, on the other hand, would have had the advantage because the Celtics finished at 69-14, the best record in the NBA.

Immediately after the Lakers beat the Golden State Warriors 4-1 in their Western playoff series, the Los Angeles players were virtually unanimous in wanting New York to beat Boston.

Forward Jim McMillan had an additional reason. He hails from New York and wants to play before his hometown fans.

"They wanted us, now they've got us," declared Walt Frazier after the Knicks surprised the Celtics in Boston and won the deciding game 97-78 Sunday with an amazing defensive effort.

Both oddsmakers rated the Lakers 4½-point choices to win the first game of the best-of-seven series starting Tuesday night in Los Angeles.

The Reno Turf Club made the Western Conference champions 17-10 picks over the New York Knicks, while Harrah's Tahoe had the Lakers as 8-5 selections.

U.S. Cagers Roll Over Russians 83-65

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Uncle Sam appears to have built a truly formidable national basketball team this year after the disappointment of 1972, yet Coach Bob Cousy says his squad must be tougher to continue whipping the Russians.

The international series continues here tonight following Sunday's 83-65 victory for the United States, a triumph at the Forum in Inglewood, Calif., which was the first meeting between the nations since the Olympic finale at Munich.

The Russians won that time 51-50 in the super-controversial ending where the U.S. claimed the USSR was given three seconds, 46 additional time after the game ended.

Tonight there was doubt that Bill Walton, UCLA's national player of the year for both 1971 and 1972, could play because of an injury, but he wants to try because San Diego is his hometown.

Walton suffered strained ligaments in his left knee when he was knocked down near the end of the first half.

Although the revenge factor has been soft pedaled, this game was rough throughout, and the Russians had absolutely nothing to say after it was over.

Vladimir Khudolev, leader of the visiting delegation, came to the dressing room door to tell newsmen:

"We lost the game and there is no need to comment further."

Cousy, coach of the Kansas City-Omaha pro team now handling the national squad, said:

"I think the kids underestimated them a little bit. But I certainly didn't. We've got to execute better. We've got to be more physical."

"It's mayhem out there, especially under the basket. The international game is very, very physical, especially inside."

The USA and USSR play a six-game series this time from coast to coast.

INGLEWOOD, CALIF.: Russia's Ivan Dvorin charges into USA's Sven Nater as he attempts to score in the USA-USSR basketball rematch of the two teams who played in the controversial game in the Olympics. Nater held an icepack on a large knot on his forehead at the end of the game. "It's the roughest game I've ever played in my life," the Dutch-born Nater said. The officials called 56 fouls as USA won 83-65. (UPI Telephoto)

Streaking Chisox Continue Hot Run

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Despite a pair of weekend victories, the Chicago White Sox don't care much for Fenway Park...and lately it hasn't been home, sweet, home for the Boston Red Sox, either.

"I don't like this park," Dick Allen said Sunday after swatting a home run into the center field bleachers during Chicago's 5-0 trimming of the Red Sox.

"I don't like this park; I really don't," echoed Bill Melton, who found the bleachers with a two-run homer in the third inning after Allen drove in the White Sox' first run with a groundout.

"This team just needs a break," said Boston Manager Eddie Kasko, whose club has dropped seven of its last eight Fenway frolics and dropped into last place in the American League East.

Elsewhere in the AL, Oakland edged Baltimore 4-3, the New York Yankees took a doubleheader from Minnesota 6-3 and 11-1, Detroit whipped Kansas City 6-1, Texas downed Milwaukee 2-1 and Cleveland nipped California 3-2.

In the National League, Los Angeles took two from Pittsburgh 9-8 in 13 innings and 2-1, St. Louis trounced San Francisco 8-3, New York shaded Atlanta 1-0, Chicago lathered San Diego 10-4, Cincinnati drubbed Philadelphia 8-0 and Houston edged Montreal 4-3.

Explaining his dislike for Fenway Park, Melton said: "It's the way they pitch to you, going for the corners, either away or inside. If it's inside, you have to pull the ball, but you know it's probably a bad pitch."

The last four outings have been good to the White Sox, who have won seven of eight road games and pushed past Kansas City into first place in the AL West.

Oakland's Catfish Hunter, a 21-game winner last year, finally posted his first 1973 triumph, although he needed help from Rollie Fingers in the ninth, when Baltimore scored all its runs on a homer by Bobby Grich and Brooks Robinson's two-run single.

The Yankees continued their new-found stickwork, cracking out 23 hits in sweeping the Twins. The barrage included four singles, a double and five runs batted in by slump-ridden Ron Blomberg and a home run and three singles by Graig Nettles. Mel Stottlemyre scattered seven hits in the opener and Fritz Peterson and Lindy McDaniel did the same in the nightcap.

Detroit's Joe Coleman scattered eight Kansas City hits in joining Chicago's Wilbur Wood as the majors' first five-game winners and batter-mate Duke Sims hit a two-run homer. It was only Kansas City's second loss in nine road games but sufficed to drop the Royals out of the lead in the West Division. They trail the White Sox by .048 percentage points.

Run-scoring singles by Dave Nelson and Toby Harrah with two out in the ninth inning lifted Texas over Milwaukee and prevented the Brewers from moving into first place in the East.

Cleveland tied California on an eighth-inning homer by rookie Charlie Spikes, his sixth, and won on a circuit by George Hendrick in the ninth off winless Clyde Wright, 0-4.

Smith Captures Swedish Title

GOTEBORG, Sweden (AP) — Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif., turned up for the upcoming World Championship tennis singles finals by winning the $50,000 Swedish Pro Championships Sunday.

Smith overcame a first set challenge from John Alexander of Australia to win his sixth circuit victory of the season, 5-7, 6-4, 6-2.

Smith, dominating Group A play, finished 12 points ahead of Australian veteran Rod Laver. Roy Emerson of Australia placed third followed by Alexander and Cliff Richey, of San Angelo, Tex.

SEASON'S SPRINT WINNER

ROSSBURG, Ohio (AP) — Sam Sessions of Nashville, Mich., 1972 USAC champion, won the USAC 40-lap sprint car feature at Eldora Speedway Sunday.

Rollie Beale of Toledo, Ohio, took second place and Lee Kunzman of Guttenberg, Iowa, came in third followed by Billy Cassella of Weirton, W. Va., and Don Nordhorn of Wadsworth, Ind.

Kunzman still leads the sprint driving standings with 202 points.

Pirates Not Ready For Panic Button

You really have to hand it to the Los Angeles Dodgers. The Pittsburgh Pirates did Sunday.

"We aren't playing well," admitted Pittsburgh Manager Bill Virdon in an obvious understatement after his floundering Pirates lost a doubleheader for their fifth straight setback.

"It's too early to worry about the standings," said Virdon after the three-time National League East champions dropped a 9-8 decision in 13 innings in the first game and 2-1 in the second.

The Pirates, who opened as one of the hottest teams in baseball with an 8-1 record, dropped to third place at 8-6, one game off the pace of the East-leading New York Mets.

It isn't Panicsville yet, though, said Virdon.

"There's no reason to panic," he said.

In the American League, the New York Yankees took a doubleheader from the Minnesota Twins 6-3 and 11-1; the Chicago White Sox downed the Boston Red Sox 5-0; the Detroit Tigers turned back the Kansas City Royals 6-1; the Oakland A's beat the Baltimore Orioles 4-3; the Cleveland Indians nipped the California Angels 3-2 and the Texas Rangers edged the Milwaukee Brewers 2-1.

One of the Pittsburgh mistakes Sunday was a fast pitch by reliever Ramon Hernandez. He laid it down the middle for Tom Paciorek and the Dodger youngster drilled it for a double to knock in the winning run in the 11th inning of the four-hour opener.

Another was an error by first baseman Bob Robertson allowed the Dodgers to score their first run in the nightcap and Willie Davis drove in the deciding run with a triple.

Pinch-hitter Paul Popovich delivered a two-run single in a four-run, sixth-inning flurry as Chicago downed San Diego. The win was the second of the year for Ferguson Jenkins.

Lou Brock's bases-loaded triple following a two-out error by San Francisco third baseman Ed Goodson capped a six-run rally in the sixth inning to pull St. Louis past the Giants.

The Cardinals are currently buried in the NL East cellar with a 3-15 record.

Unbeaten Jerry Koosman hurled a four-hitter and notched his fourth victory of the year in New York's success over Atlanta. The Mets scored the only run of the game in the second inning on Jerry Grote's sacrifice fly.

Jack Billingham pitched a five-hitter and struck out nine and Bobby Tolan drove in five runs with two doubles and a single as Cincinnati defeated Philadelphia. Billingham had a perfect game until Mike Schmidt lashed a two-out single in the fifth inning.

Cesar Cedeño scored the winning run on a balk by Montreal pitcher Tom Walker with two out in the ninth inning as Houston rallied for a pair of runs to beat the Expos.

Fergie Keeps Own Control Of Padres

CHICAGO (AP) — Ferguson Jenkins says he "really never worked loose in the chilly going." But with temperatures in the low 60s Sunday at Wrigley Field, he was loose enough to win his 12th career victory without a loss against the San Diego Padres.

The Cubs' pitcher, who picked up his second victory of the season, had plenty of help from his teammates, who pounded out 15 hits as the Cubs won 10-4.

Jenkins was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the sixth inning after yielding nine hits. San Diego had tied the game at 3-3 in the top of the sixth, but pinch-hitters knocked in three of the Cubs' four runs in their half of the inning. Three more runs in the bottom of the seventh put the game out of reach.

The Padres used six pitchers altogether, with veteran Bob Miller setting down the Cubs in order in the eighth after the Padres scored their final run.

In the sixth inning, Ron Santo and Jose Cardenal singled off loser Mike Caldwell to start the rally. Pinch-hitter Gene Hise singled to score Santo and then pinch-hitter Paul Popovich singled in two more runs.

Before reliever Rich Troendson could get the third out, Glenn Beckert pushed across another run with a single.

Beckert extended his hitting streak to 11 games and Ron Santo stretched his to ten games. Rick Monday also has had a hot bat. He has hit safely in the last eight games, with 13 hits in 27 times at bat.

Clarence Gaston and Dave Hilton homered for San Diego. It was Hilton's first major league home run and the seventh off Jenkins this year. Jenkins led the National League in homers surrendered last year with 32 in 36 games.

The win made it a series sweep for the Cubs, who bounced back from three straight losses to San Francisco.

Wadkins Captures Classic

DALLAS (AP) — "I just knew Lanny was going to win it. I just knew it. He told me so. He was so confident. And I'm so proud of him."

So spoke the pretty young blonde who television viewers across the country watched run across the green Sunday grab and hug Lanny Wadkins.

Her name is Rachel. She is 23. And Mrs. Wadkins.

Her husband had just won the $150,000 Byron Nelson Classic, a bizarre victory, perhaps more lost by Dan Sikes than won by Lanny Wadkins.

But that's debatable.

When you birdie five of the last seven holes, including a super clutch 15-footer on 18 it's hard to argue that the $30,000 was a gift, not a prize of the highest order.

He won it with a par on the first hole of a sudden death playoff, a duel brought about by a dramatic 40-foot putt by Sikes at the final hole.

Then Sikes, 42, by two decades Wadkins' elder, three-putted the par 5 playoff hole, missing a "two-fer" putt he admitted "I jerked."

Sikes started the final round tied with Bob Dickson for the lead at four under par, three shots ahead of Bert Yancey and four strokes in front of Wadkins, Tom Weiskopf, Bruce Crampton, and five others.

Wadkins' final round of three-under-par 67 gave him a 277 total, three under par which matched Sikes' 72-hole card. Sikes shot a one-over-par 71 in the final round Sunday.

Dickson took third at 279, one under, shooting a closing 73, and Crampton nailed the fourth spot with a par 70 for 280.

Knicks Set Sights On West Coast Next

BOSTON (AP) — The New York Knicks trained their sights on the Los Angeles Lakers today with Old Pro Walt Frazier sounding the general warning to the West Coast: "They wanted us, now they've got us."

Frazier and his New York teammates were over-flowing with confidence Sunday after whipping the Boston Celtics 94-78 and advancing to the National Basketball Association's championship round.

After a slow start, with Frazier scoring only two points in the first period, the Knicks came on strong to defeat the Celtics in the seventh and deciding game of the Eastern playoff final. Defense was the key, with the Knicks holding the big advantage.

"Our defense picked them up right away, that was the key," Frazier said after finishing with 25 points. "The Celtics were playing with a two-man offense, Dave Cowens and Jo Jo White, and you can only play so long with that."

Then the All-Star backcourt sharp-shooter recalled reading that the Lakers had rooted for a New York victory, giving Los Angeles the home court advantage in the best-of-seven championship series opening in California Tuesday night.

New York Coach Red Holzman declined to make any predictions, but he didn't look a bit worried at the prospect of playing the Lakers.

"We were 2-2 with them this year," Holzman said. "However, the last game we played at Los Angeles was a game that really meant something—and we won. We did some things in that game that we can take into the series coming up."

The Knicks, who trailed 22-19 after the first period, came alive in the second quarter after young Dean Meminger came off the bench to replace ailing Earl Monroe. New York hustled to a 45-40 halftime lead and then blew out the Celtics in the final two periods.

"We knew we had to play physical and aggressive from the start, and we did," Meminger said. "In the last couple of games, we played well enough, but weren't physical enough and lost."

Cowens scored 24 points and White contributed 22, but the Knicks shut off other Boston shooters. The Celtics' 78 points represented the fewest by any New York opponent this season.

"New York played great and won it," Boston Coach Tommy Heinsohn said. "We got beat, that's all. We weren't flat. The ball just wasn't going in the basket for us. We had good shots, but the ball just wouldn't go in."

Vulnerable Hawks Drop Opener, 8-3

MONTREAL (AP) — "The third period with three of them coming in less than two minutes including a crushing shorthanded goal by Pete Mahovlich."

Reay contended that Marc Tardif, who assisted on Lemaire's go-ahead goal, was off-side.

"I don't think he was offside, I know it," said Reay, "and everybody else knew it."

When Montreal Coach Scotty Bowman heard about Reay's charge, he gave the press a private showing and reran the tape on a television monitor which showed Tardif was on-side.

"It was close but he was on-side," said Bowman, who then added, "Great things these contraptions."

Probably the happiest of the Canadiens was Pete Mahovlich whose shorthanded score opened up a three-goal barrage in the third period. Pete has been the subject of some booby birds in the Forum but when he scored he received a standing ovation.

"It really made me feel good," said Pete, whose brother Frank followed with a goal 58 seconds later. "The fans here are knowledgeable and they figure I should be scoring more."

The goal was only the second in the playoffs this year for Pete, who is one of the most dangerous shorthanded scorers in the league.

Bowman thought the three key goals were made by Jacques Laperriere, Lemaire and Pete Mahovlich.

"Laperriere's goal made it 21 and brought us back into the game," said Bowman. "If they had gotten the third goal who knows what might have happened. Lemaire put us ahead 43 but Pete's goal clinched it. They were on the power play and if they had scored it would have been 5-4 and, again, who knows what could happen."

Following Tuesday's game, the series will shift to Chicago for games on Thursday night and Sunday afternoon. If the series goes further No. 5 will be played in Montreal the following Tuesday, No. 6 in Chicago on Thursday and the final game in Montreal May 13.

Although each team won its divisional title, the Canadiens got the home ice advantage for posting a better season record than Chicago.

Red Hopes Cards Have Ended Slum

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "Everybody's been saying we needed the big inning," Red Schoendienst said optimistically. "Maybe this was it."

Schoendienst's St. Louis Cardinals, threatening to become baseball's worst team, Sunday arose to smite prospectively the best, the San Francisco Giants, 8-3.

As important as the victory, the Cards' third in 18 games, was a six-run explosion in the sixth inning featuring five hits, a walk, a sacrifice fly and a crucial Giants miscue.

"Mostly it's been a matter of our swinging at bad pitches," noted Schoendienst, whose team was hitting .213 and is averaging three runs a game.

"It's really not so much bad pitches but pitches the other team has wanted us to hit," he added. "We've been tight. I just hope we turned the corner."

The Cardinals, shut out in two straight previous games, trailed Juan Marichal, 4-2, and the Giants by 3-2 before arising Sunday much like a sports world's Lazarus.

Joe Torre and Ted Simmons put hits back to back and Ken Reitz, hitting .172, singled sharply to left-center field to tie the contest.

Marichal departed after walking Ed Crosby, a .150 hitter, and pinch-hitter Tim McCarver greeted reliever Randy Moffitt with a sacrifice fly scoring Simmons.

Moffitt would have escaped further damage, but third baseman Ed Goodson threw wide after fielding Rick Wise's grounder and Lou Brock followed with a bases-loaded triple.

That made it 7-3 St. Louis, and Luis Melendez' second single scored Brock to complete the rally.

"I just try to go out and do my job," said the cigar-smoking Wise, 3-1, a 6-foot-2 right-hander who has accounted for 11 the Cardinals' victories.

Trouched for all Giants scoring when Marichal doubled in two runs and Reitz erred in the second, Wise ignited a two-run Cardinals inning later by taking a retaliatory Marichal pitch in the small of the back.

Marichal, responding to Wise's unintentional beaming of Goodson in the top of the third, yielded subsequent two-out singles to Brock and Melendez and walked Torre and Simmons to force in another run.

"I expected to be thrown at," said Wise, "but hitting me gave us two runs and put us back in the ball game. I was just trying to come in on Goodson, not hit him."

"As it turned out, that seemed to be our spark. We're going on the road now. Maybe this was a good time for this to happen."

Pearson Claims Virginia 500 in Tight Finish

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (AP) — "Good Lord," said David Pearson. "There ought to be an easier way of making a living."

Pearson, 38, had manhandled a 3,800-pound Mercury stock car for 3 hours, 44 minutes and 22 seconds, battled close friend Cale Yarborough tooth and nail every minute of it, and finally won the 18th annual Virginia 500 Sunday before a standing room only crowd variously estimated at 27,000 to 29,000 at Martinsville Speedway.

"I'm not knocking the race track," said the dog-tired Pearson, rubbing blistered hands. "But running 500 laps here is harder than trucking 500 miles at a bigger track, say Talladega or Daytona."

The Martinsville oval, measuring just over half a mile around and almost as flat as a pancake, is a key stop on the Winston Cup Grand National circuit of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing (NASCAR).

He and Yarborough had hooked up in a rib-snorting duel for the final 125 miles in Sunday's race. They ran much of that distance either side by side or front bumper to rear bumper. And they appeared headed for a sizzling finish until Yarborough sealed his own fate with only about six laps remaining.

The 36-year-old Yarborough, wheeling Junior Johnson's Chevrolet, cut inside Pearson in a frantic effort to get around the leader and spun around in the fourth turn. That miscue gave the wily Pearson the breather he needed, and he cruised home to pick up the $11,000 first place check.

Whalers Sweep To 7-2 Victory Over Winnipeg

BOSTON (AP) — The New England Whalers are off to a fast start against Bobby Hull's Winnipeg Jets in a showdown for the World Hockey Association's first championship, but nobody is talking about a sweep.

"It was a strange game, to say the least, and, truthfully, we did not play that well," New England Coach Jack Kelley said Sunday night after the Whalers' 7-2 victory in the opener of the best-of-7 series.

The Whalers, who defeated Winnipeg in five of six regular season meetings, spotted the Jets a goal by Norm Beaudin midway through the first period and then stormed back with four tallies.

"In that first period, we turned over the puck 14 times and our goalie, Al Smith, bailed us out," Kelley said. "Then we were fortunate that our last four shots in the period went in. It was not a period of solid hockey, but we skated better in the next two periods."

The Whalers were out-shot 147 in the opening 20 minutes, but went to the dressing room with a 4-1 lead. Defenseman Rick Ley triggered the outburst with a power play goal at 12:10. Tom Webster, Tom Earl and John French followed with goals.

Webster and Tommy Williams hiked the score to 6-1 with second period goals and defenseman Jim Dorey made it 7-1 early in the finale before Hull ended the scoring with his sixth playoff tally.

INDIANS EMPLOYED WHITEFISH BAY, Ont. (AP) —

Mink coats, hats and mink plates are among the main products of the Shong-Way-Shi fur factory, which recently held its opening ceremonies in this community south of Kenora.

Department of Indian Affairs officials say the factory is expected to employ 40 of the 387 Ojibway Indians on the Whitefish Bay reserve.

Local Officials Say OEO Closing Will Affect Vital Poverty Programs

(Editor's Note: The Office of Economic Opportunity faces this summer the closing of the OEO. To them, the order closing the OEO from the AP Special Assignment Team, looks at the war on poverty without an OEO.)

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG

MICHAEL J. SNIFFEN

Associated Press Writers

WASHINGTON (AP) —

To

Nixon's order closing the Office of Economic Opportunity gives them command of a reduced war on poverty they doubt they can win.

A federal judge has blocked Nixon's order, but without more money from Congress the OEO likely will be out of business by summer.

The officials believe that the President's latest budget, which includes no money for OEO, will leave them without resources to pick up many of the antipoverty agency's local programs.

The administration says it isn't so, that the money will be available to localities through revenue sharing.

But Richard Belles, federal programs coordinator for year that ended last June 30, Louisville, Ky., doubts he'll get the money he needs for some current antipoverty projects.

"All you're given is authority to make very unpopular decisions," he said.

Belles and hundreds of other local officials nationwide probably must find funds to pay for such OEO programs as youth activities, eye-and-ear examinations for school children and special assistance to elderly shut-ins, or drop them.

And they see less money coming for manpower training, lot of the jobs it gave poor and other antipoverty programs people are likely to be lost. No based in federal agencies other than OEO.

The officials are skeptical of programs could depend on White House assurances that, whether local governments can cities will get the same level of federal support for social programs as they received since 1964 when Lyndon Johnson's entire cost because the agencies program is the one for which all federal support would die with OEO.

The agencies and projects they fund employ about 185,000 persons, of whom about 95,000 were poor before they got OEO jobs. Their average annual salary is $5,182.

Mayor Roman Gribbs of Detroit, President of the National League of Cities, wrote the President that the league's analysis of the federal budget showed a drop in federal appropriations for cities next year of $4.1 billion.

Kenneth Cole, head of the White House Domestic Council, responded that by his calculations there is a net increase of $1.2 billion.

Those figures include all federal aid to cities, not just funds for the poor.

But, as a report from the U.S. Conference of Mayors said, "Deep cuts in the budget will affect vital city programs. These cuts will be felt first and sharpest by minority groups and the poor."

Billions of dollars in aid to the poor still will flow from Washington.

For example, in the fiscal year that ended last June 30, total federal aid to the poor was $28.3 billion. OEO's budget current antipoverty projects, the same year was just over $1 billion.

Such direct cash payments as Social Security accounted for $12.2 billion. The remaining $16.1 billion paid for a variety of services and commodities such as health care, job training, education programs, housing and food.

In that latter group we have OEO programs.

Still, if OEO closes down, a lot of the jobs it gave poor and other antipoverty programs people are likely to be lost. No based in federal agencies other than OEO.

Nixon Administration Unveils Tax-Reform Plan

By R. GREGORY NOKES

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) —

The Nixon administration Monday unveiled a tax-reform program that would tighten loopholes to "remove the spectacle of high-income taxpayers who pay no tax by parlaying tax deductions and exclusions."

One proposal would establish a minimum taxable income.

Another would limit what the administration called "artificial accounting losses."

The package also would provide property-tax relief for the elderly, an investment tax credit for oil and gas exploration to meet the energy crisis, and a tuition credit for students in nonpublic schools.

It includes a simplified tax form called 1040S which is designed to make tax time easier for about 20 million Americans.

The new form includes an over-65 credit and liberalized deductions for child care.

Secretary of the Treasury George P. Shultz presented the administration's long-awaited tax-reform plan to the House Ways and Means Committee, which isn't expected to act on it for several months.

The administration is not asking for a general tax increase, which Shultz said is both "unnecessary and undesirable."

The government expects to gain $800 million in tax revenue by closing the two loopholes, but would lose $1.1 billion through the other changes, including $500 million on a property-tax credit for the elderly and $400 million on tax simplification.

Shultz told the committee the tax-reform measures are designed to "collect a reasonable amount of income taxes from those citizens who are not now paying a fair share of the tax burden."

The "widespread tax-shelter market introduces significant distortions into our economy," Shultz said. It also has "a dangerously demoralizing effect on the operation of our revenue system."

The minimum-taxable-income proposal would prevent a taxpayer's exclusions and deductions from offsetting more than one-half of his income. Thus, he would have to pay taxes on at least half his revenues.

Shultz said the great majority of high-income persons are responsible taxpayers, but "taxpayers who have large income and pay little or no tax do exist in limited, but significant, numbers."

The limitation on artificial accounting losses is designed to eliminate the practice of using losses from one business activity to offset earnings of another.

Shultz said that, if Congress approves the package, losses on income-producing property henceforth could only be deducted from future earnings on the property that lost money.

The loss "may not be used to offset or shelter other unrelated income of the taxpayer," Shultz said.

"Taxpayers may still purchase investments on which the income can be tax-free for substantial periods, but the tax system will no longer pay them to buy such investments," he said.

The changes apply to individuals, except for farmers. They do not apply to corporations.

Low- and middle-income elderly persons would receive a refundable credit for property-tax payments exceeding 5 percent of household income, up to a maximum $500.

Equivalent relief would be provided for elderly renters, with the credit based on the amount of rent assessed by the landlord to pay his property taxes. Usually this is about 15 percent of rent, the administration said.

The elderly, as well as working mothers, also would benefit from the proposed simplified tax form.

A taxpayer over 65 would receive a special credit. From a $1,500 base amount, the taxpayer would deduct Social Security and railroad retirement benefits and could subtract 15 percent of the difference from his tax bill.

The age credit would replace the complex retirement-income credit and would result in an over-all tax reduction for the elderly of about $200 million.

Proposed Form 1040S also would streamline deductions by providing a miscellaneous-deduction allowance of $500 for every taxpayer who itemizes deductions.

Not everyone would qualify for Form 1040S, Shultz said, but it would benefit "the more than 20 million taxpayers with simple family and financial transactions."

The tax credit for nonpublic school tuition would apply to 50 percent of tuition paid to non-profit schools up to a maximum credit of $200 per child. The credit, which would be refundable, would be phased out for families earning above $18,000.

The proposal, which already is included in the administration's 1974 budget, would cost the government about $300 million.

The proposed investment credit for exploratory drilling for oil and gas is designed to encourage domestic exploration "for which there is critical need," Shultz said.

He said a driller of a new exploratory well could claim a 7-percent investment credit for his intangible drilling costs plus an allowance for geological and geophysical expenses.

There would be a supplementary credit of 5 percent against the first tax due if the exploratory well is productive.

Shultz told the committee the administration's tax-reform proposals "will increase the fairness of the tax system and high-income taxpayers who pay no tax by parlaying tax deductions and exclusions."

But he said the administration would not tighten nor shut off general investment incentives, such as liberal depreciation rules and investment tax credits, or the action of past administrations in lowering the tax on corporations.

to raise a huge tent, left, but not for a circus or any other of the usual reasons. The work in hand was actually a huge vinyl bubble inflated near Ashland Petroleum Company's Buffalo, N.Y., refinery to provide weather protection for construction of a synthetic natural gas plant. The semi-transparent bubble, below, is 264 feet long, 40 feet high and covers 34,000 square feet of working space. Air forced between two layers of vinyl keeps it rigid. Used in home construction for years, it is the first such large-scale application to industrial construction.

Clock in bell tower is stilled at the hour earthquake began in Managua.

Long lines of people stand in heat and dust to receive emergency food supplies.

TOWARD RECOVERY

Last December 23, in Managua, capital of Nicaragua, the earth strained and heaved and cracked. The hands of the clock in the cathedral were stilled at 12:23 a.m., the time the first severe earthquake tremor struck the sleeping city. In less than 30 seconds, some 36 blocks—over half the city—were virtually flattened.

The enormous loss of life and property was almost beyond comprehension. The immediate needs were for medical services, food, water and shelter for hundreds of thousands of survivors. International government and voluntary agencies responded quickly with assistance—the U.S., through AID (Agency for International Development), being among the first on the scene. And President Nixon named Maurice J. Williams, AID Deputy Administrator, to be his Special Coordinator for Emergency Relief for Nicaragua.

Now AID has announced a special multipurpose $15 million loan to help Nicaragua move from emergency relief to reconstruction, a major objective being to put the maximum number of survivors back to work on essential activities as soon as possible. The loan brings official U.S. assistance to Nicaragua since the disaster to $27,473,816, while U.S. voluntary agencies have contributed almost $2 million.

Beardstown Safe Behind Seawall

By VIRGIL REITHER
Beardstown Correspondent
BEARDSTOWN — Despite a record Illinois river stage over 27 feet for the first time in years, Beardstownians seem undisturbed by the flood situation except for concern about the neighbors.

Surrounding towns of Chandler, Meredosia, Frederick and Brownsville are in big trouble and local volunteers have been trying to help with sandbagging jobs wherever possible.

The local rescue squad has been called out at least twice for work at Chandler, and local youngsters and others have volunteered in the other towns.

Predictions Low
The crest of 26.5 predicted for the river here Sunday was exceeded Friday but assurances came from Peoria, where the river was at a stand, and local observers correctly believed the river here would stop rising soon.

The river crested Sunday at 27.1 feet.

For the first time in the memory of Maurice Lehmkuhl, bridge tender, orders came not to open the Burlington Northern railroad bridge here. Trains continued to run over the tracks, but barge traffic has been stopped for several days, due to Coast Guard efforts to ease the "wave and wash" problems at the many small towns along the river.

Barges Parked
For the past several days scores of barges have been parked on both sides of the river; crews of towboats have been sent home in some cases, and remain aboard in others. The crew members use smaller boats to get to Beardstown's dock.

About the worst mess near Beardstown is that at Brownsville where many residents have been forced out of their homes — many are staying with neighbors on high ground. Boats are tied up near the post office dock and cars have been moved toward the center of town. Many residents can fish in their own yards.

Water, Sewer Problems
Most Browning people have their own driven wells and seep-

Bessie Long, State Hospital Nurse, 63, Dies

Mrs. Bessie Long of 841 West Morton avenue, a nurse at Jacksonville State Hospital for many years, died at Norris hospital Saturday night. She was 63 years of age and had been a patient since last December.

Mrs. Long was born January 1910 in Moultrie county, daughter of William and Minnie Dugan Switzer. An aunt, Zelma Daniel of Decatur, and several cousins survive.

The deceased was a member of Women of the Moose in Jacksonville.

Graveside rites will be at 1 p.m. Tuesday in Keller cemetery, south of Lovington.

McMullen Funeral Home in Lovington is in charge of arrangements.

Winchester PTA Installs Officers

By MRS. JAMES COX
(Winchester Correspondent)
WINCHESTER — Members of the Winchester PTA Board met at the First Baptist church Thursday evening for their April board meeting.

Mrs. Joe Dolen, president, conducted the business session with routine reports given. Mrs. George Lashmett, membership chairman, Mrs. Ed Gant, publicity, and Mrs. James Cox, health chairman, gave their reports.

During the evening Mrs. Dolen installed the 1973-74 PTA Officers. They are: president, Mrs. James Cox; vice president, Mrs. Gary Buckley; secretary, Mrs. Eddie Young and treasurer, Mrs. Sherry Aitor.

Refreshments were served following the meeting by Mrs. Dolen and Mrs. George Lashmett.

General CWF To Meet
The CWF Circles will meet for their general meeting Wednesday, May 2 at the First Christian church at 7:30 p.m.

Miss Nellie Roosa will be in charge of the program with Mrs. Hal McLaughlin to give the devotion.

The members of the Dorcas Circle will be in charge of the social hour.

tic tanks, and the flood situation interferes greatly with these services. Reportedly all drinking water is boiled before use.

School buses were pulled up in a row near route 100 which passes through the center of Brownsville. The rural mail carrier is doing a lot of fancy re-routings and some persons have to get their mail at the post office.

At Frederick, also on Ill. 100 in Schuyler County, volunteers have piled sandbags along the highway and in other strategic points but not very close to the post office, as previously reported. On Friday and Saturday traffic out of Frederick was one way for a short distance.

Sightseers swelled the traffic, unusually heavy also because Ill. 24 north of Rushville has been closed due to a mudslide and pavement collapse.

Diverted Water
At Chandler, traffic continues over Ill. 78 and the bridge over the Sangamon River was in use, although water is climbing near the floor. Chandler blames much of the flood condition on what Mayor Atterberry says is the release of water from Lake Springfield.

Beardstown people are looking at a similar problem. From the river banks the water looks very muddy. But in mid-stream, according to bridge-tenders and boatmen, the waters are clear and blue. They maintain this results from an unusually large release of water from Lake Michigan.

Marina Harbormaster
Orville Smith says he has raised the furniture in his boat home, which he describes as "rocking all night" due to the high current on the river. The Marina is flooded and Smith has had his hands full carrying for boats and docks.

Schmidt Park here is flooded with seep water and pumps are being used by many home owners and business men who are trying to maintain dry basements.

Farmers Hurt

It is a mighty sad story in the farm area, especially east in the Sangamon Valley where hundreds of acres of farmland have been underwater for weeks. Farmers say they can't possibly get any corn in before the last of May, and they will need fast growing hybrids then. The soybeans can be planted later than corn and some farmers say they will have to increase their soybean acreage and cut down on corn due to the floods.

John Lancaster reported Saturday that his home on Duck Slough road — over Thrill Hill — has water in the front yard for the first time in years — he and his wife have moved out of the house because of the inconvenience of having to use a boat to get to high ground. Several other residents in the area have moved and the others use boats to get to high ground. They have already pulled farm equipment beyond the water's reach.

Flood Gate Used

Last Thursday, workers at Beardstown installed part of the sliding flood gates at the State Street end of the Beardstown seawall. This was the first time this precautionary move has been taken: in 1943 the wall was lower and the gate arrangement had not been built into the wall plan. The cement wall was built higher after that '43 "dry flood."

With tension easing throughout the area due to improving river conditions in the north, many people are beginning to think about the horrendous job of cleaning up.

Some Clear Lake cottage dwellers are staying at the Park Hotel here and they believe they may get back by boat next week.

Young Man Faces Charge

A Jacksonville young man, Richard Surratt, 19, was formally accused Monday afternoon of contributing to the sexual delinquency of a minor stemming from an incident Sunday evening.

Surratt told the court he had no permanent address but formerly resided in Beardstown.

He received the appointment of the public defender and bond was set at $1,000 for appearance Wednesday for arraignment.

He was taken to the county jail pending posting of the required bond.

Officers were notified early Sunday about a 14-year-old girl who had been missing from Jacksonville State Hospital since 5 p.m. About 11:30 p.m. the girl and Surratt were spotted at a service station. The girl was returned to the hospital.

FORMER RESIDENT GETS APPOINTMENT TO U. S. ACADEMY

Randall Thady, a former Franklin resident living in Jonesboro, has received an appointment to the United States Military Academy at West Point, N.Y.

Randall Thady

Thady, a senior at St. Anna Jonesboro High School, is the son of Donald and Elaine Thady. He is the maternal grandson of Lucille Irlam and the late John H. Irlam of Jacksonville; his paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Roy Thady of 818 Doolin Ave.

Thady will leave July 2 for West Point.

No-Fault Bills Sent To House For A Decision

By LARRY KRAMP
Associated Press Writer
SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) —

The Illinois House Insurance Committee sent two no-fault auto liability insurance bills to the House floor Monday for a choice on how much of a citizen's right to sue for pain and suffering should be lost in exchange for quicker payment of average auto insurance claims.

No-fault insurance provides payment to injured parties without regard to who was at fault in an automobile accident.

A bill backed the Illinois State Bar Association was adopted 11-2 by the committee. It retains the right of injured parties to sue for damages.

By the terms of another bill, adopted 8-4, an injured party could sue for damages only if his medical expenses exceeded $500 and if injury were to involve more than the "soft tissues" of the body.

The injured party could sue in any case involving death, dismemberment, permanent total or partial disability, permanent serious disfigurement, or permanent loss of any bodily functions.

The senate is holding a third bill which is considered the model insurance industry bill. It allows the right to sue for pain and suffering in case of death, serious injury and disability lasting at least 60 days.

All three of the bills provide for prompt payment of out-of-pocket medical expenses and wage loss regardless of fault.

A 1971 Illinois no-fault insurance law was ruled unconstitutional by the state Supreme Court last year on grounds it placed restrictions on the filing of suits claiming pain and disability losses. Another complaint was that lower benefits would be paid to the poor because they could not obtain hospital and other expensive treatment available to others.

Committee members showed a prime interest in whether, if no-fault insurance was designed to cut down costs of auto insurance, the industry would accept as part of no-fault legislation a mandatory reduction in premium costs to consumers to reflect savings.

Joseph Levin, assistant director of the Illinois Department of Insurance testified that "We considered either a mandatory reduction, or postponing action until all the facts are in. If it could be demonstrated that a premium reduction was in order, it should be taken now."

William S. Gibson, vice president of the Midwest region of the American Insurance Association, said that the auto insurance industry was highly competitive in Illinois and the intense battle for business would bring rates down if the claim experience under no-fault brought company savings.

HARBIN FUNERAL HELD HERE MONDAY

Funeral services for Leona Harbin were held 1:30 p.m. Monday at the Williamson Funeral Home with the Rev. Arnold Hoffman officiating. Organist was Mrs. G. O. Webster.

Assisting with the flowers were Elaine Harbin, Deborah Downs and Barbara Harbin. Pallbearers were Keith Harbin, Jimmie Harbin, Larry Harbin, Buddy Harbin, Reggie Harbin and Brian Harbin. Burial was in the Arenzville North cemetery.

Illinois River Crests, But Danger Not Over

By JOHN POWER

The Illinois River has crested again, "but we may see even worse waters than these," Gordon Cordes, area engineer with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, stated Monday.

"If we get a heavy rain, there's no place for the river to go but up," Cordes said. He observed that "we're still not out of the flood season, and the flood period goes into early June."

Breaks Records

The river crests broke all records for the last 200 years from Florence on down, according to Cordes, "and the Hardin to Grafton area is four feet above the previous high water."

Cordes said the Corps and volunteer workers are holding their own against the water now, "and we feel that, without any more precipitation, we should be able to maintain what we have. We're going to watch in case we get winds and wave wash, which could cause over-topping."

Jerseyville Office

Cordes said the Corps will be setting up a semi-permanent office in Jerseyville to handle all clean-up operations. He said he and several other Corps members would be manning the office.

Wally Feld, assistant Corps area engineer, described the McGee Creek, the Hillview and the Eldred drainage and levee districts as "still critical." He said these areas are being patrolled around the clock, and sandbagging is being conducted as necessary.

The Illinois River crested at Beardstown Sunday at 27.1 feet. The river was down .1 foot at Beardstown, up .1 foot at Meredosia, and down .4 foot at Grafton Monday morning.

Another 150 National Guardsmen joined the 100 already at the McGee Creek levee early

Springfield Soldier Suspect In Murder

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Victor Wasilewski, 21, of Springfield, Ill., was handed over to Illinois authorities Sunday after police here said he admitted the early morning killing of a Petersburg, Ill., teenager.

Wasilewski, a soldier on leave from Ft. Hood, Tex., was booked on suspicion of murder in connection with the death of Roland E. Angels, 17, whose bullet-riddled body was found early Sunday on a highway near his home town, the Merand County Sheriff's Department said.

Police said Wasilewski admitted shooting Angel five or six times with a revolver after he found out the teen-ager had been seeing his wife. Police said Wasilewski made the admission during an investigation of a minor accident on Interstate 70 near Earth City, Mo., in St. Louis County.

Patrolman Lawrence
McCormick of the county police department said he went to investigate the accident early Sunday morning and on arriving at the scene, the soldier blurted out, "I just killed somebody in Illinois."

Police said Wasilewski led them to a .22-caliber pistol which he said he threw from his car before they arrived.

Leahy Rejection Tied To Federal Report

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Walker administration moved Monday to bolster its earlier suggestion that the Daley Democrats in the Illinois Senate rejected Mary Lee Leahy as director of the Environmental Protection Agency, because she intended to pursue federal criticism of Chicago's anti-pollution effort.

The administration said Mrs. Leahy had been scheduled to meet Tuesday with Chicago's chief pollution fighter, H. Wallace Poston, to discuss a report issued by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency charging that the city:

—Was not complying with an agreement to furnish the state with data from surveillance and investigations of pollution.

—Has received $1 million in federal funds to buy pollution-fighting equipment, some of which has been lost, stolen or left unused.

—Did not include all information available about individual polluters in its reports.

—Did not provide the state with a record of complaints by citizens concerning smoke violations, although these complaints might have triggered investigations.

—Following the rejection of Mrs. Leahy by the Senate Thursday, Gov. Daniel Walker suggested one reason may have been her intention of pursuing the federal criticisms of the city's program. Democrats loyal to Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley led in killing the appointment.

Second Bench Trial Heard

Judge Gordon Seator heard evidence in a second bench trial Monday stemming from the same incident.

Dawn Homer Kleinschmitt, 20, of Chapin, charged with dragging, had his bench trial Monday afternoon. The court heard evidence in a bench trial involving the second driver in the morning.

Judge Seator took the evidence in both cases under advisement and said he would announce a decision later.

The offense for which Kleinschmitt is charged took place Sept. 23, 1972.

Sunday morning. They sandbagged to keep the water from overtopping the levee. The main problems there were described as "rising water and seepage."

Tom Poullain, Corps engineer, stated Monday night "the McGee Creek levee is to the point that it's impassable with vehicles, and we are having to load boats with sandbags and send them to trouble spots. We've had a big turnout of volunteers Saturday and Sunday, and tonight the place is booming."

Levee Patrols

Poullain said "we're trying to get one foot of freeboard along the levee." He said the Guardsmen, local people, etc., are patrolling the levee around the clock. The total levee is 15 miles in length, and about 12 of these are along the river.

Poullain stated there has been a good-sized rain storm north of this area, and the extra sandbagging is in anticipation of the extra water which will be coming downriver as a result of this storm. He reported that there have been nine or 10 pipping flows through the levee, but that they had been ringed with sandbags as they occur; "we're not worried as long as the flow water is clear, but when it's muddy, that means it is carrying material from the levee."

At Meredosia, volunteers were still sandbagging along the river and at the storm sewers.

Hillview District was experiencing severe wash, seepage and boil problems Monday.

Seeps, Boils

Overtopping was prevented at Nutwood District by sandbagging and sealing off seeps and boils. The National Guard was helping there, too.

Feld stated, "All unprotected villages and towns along the river have suffered severe damage."

The National Guard was still working in Grafton Monday. A curfew remains in effect to cut down on the possibility of looting. About 80 percent of the town has been evacuated, and all traffic is cut off. The crest arrived there late Saturday night, and the river has been very slowly falling since then.

Hardin

Volunteers were holding their own Monday night at the Hardin medical center and other areas along the riverfront. "They're holding back close to four feet of water, and I don't see how they're doing it," stated Cordes. Drinking water is all right; the bridge is open only to local traffic.

Kampsville

Kampsville was trying Monday to get a portable water tank or a portable purification system into town. Calhoun County Civil Defense got a Red Cross unit into town to inoculate the inhabitants.

Since the town is completely shut off, the U.S. Air Force sent temporary medical facilities in Pearl.

Cordes described Pearl as "okay barring any heavy rains." Valley City and Florence: "They're holding their own real well."

Naples residents were sandbagging in an attempt to channel some of the water which has seeped into town to the pumps. They had reportedly begun to gain on the seep water Sunday and Monday.

Sandbags

The Corps has dispensed 375,000 sandbags in this area since Wednesday. Approximately 12,000 acres have been flooded, but these were in protected areas or were protected by private levees. None of the organized levee districts has been flooded, although seep water, etc., has accounted for some damage. Corps engineers stated 130,000 acres have been protected from the most recent flooding.

TWO BURGLARIES REPORTED TO POLICE

Two residential burglaries were reported to the city police department Monday.

Marjorie Tipsword of 221 E. Beecher Ave., complained a velvet coat, a camera, and a portable swimming pool were stolen from her home as she was moving to a new apartment.

Ethel Day of 918 E. Independence Ave. said some coins were stolen from her locked house Monday.

ARREST FUGITIVE HERE MONDAY

Larry Wiley, 28, of 504 N. Church St., was arrested by a city detective Monday on a contempt of court warrant.

Wiley was being held in the Morgan County jail last night for failure to appear in circuit court to answer a charge of armed robbery.

Teacher Salary Issue Raised In Negotiation

The door was opened to salary negotiations as the Jacksonville Education Association and the board of School District 117 wrapped up their fifth round of talks last night.

Salary increases in "the area of six to seven percent" were suggested to the board according to JEA negotiator Bob Thomas. School board negotiator Russell Morris said that figure would be brought before the board for discussion at tonight's meeting.

Morris was unwilling to concede that the board was resigned to granting salary increases in any amount.

Two proposals were agreed to during the secret talks at the district's Lincoln Ave. offices which lasted over two hours. The first proposal grants teachers the right to inspect their official personnel files with the exception of confidential placement and "personnel reference material."

The second item stipulates that the board of education "shall encourage each school faculty to create a program implementing philosophy and policies to develop good student conduct and handle discipline problems."

Only one non-economic proposal remains to be resolved, Thomas said. The teachers are asking that any changes in their master contract be made through negotiations with the school board rather than by unilateral board action, which is sometimes the case now.

The next negotiating session will start at 7:30 p.m. May 8 at the Red Farm administrative offices.

The JEA with a membership of 277 represents about 300 teachers in School District 117.

Relief Sought For Flood-Zone Schools

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Emergency legislation to insure that flood-stricken school districts are not penalized for closing their doors during recent flooding will be introduced in the General Assembly this week, State School Superintendent Michael Bakalis said Monday.

He told a news conference that the measures will be sponsored by Sen. Kenneth Buzbee, D-Carbondale, and in the House by Rep. James Holloway, D-Sparta.

The legislation would eliminate the 180-day requirement for schools to be open in order to receive the full amount of state aid owed them.

Under the school code, districts can have five days leeway if an emergency situation forced closings.

But Bakalis said some schools have been closed as many as 90 days due to the flooding.

If the school code requirements are applied, the school districts would lose one percent of their state funding for every day less than 180 days that it was open.

"If it is reasonable and fair to grant local communities exemption from penalty for five days when their schools are forced to close by an act of God, it is equally as unreasonable to impose the penalty after five days if a similar act of God continues to keep their doors closed," he said.

Bakalis said he will also seek emergency legislation awarding $300,000 in aid to districts which allowed students to skip classes in order to assist in sandbagging against floodwaters.

With students out of class, school districts stood to lose state aid which in part is based on the number of students attending class.

The counties hardest hit by the floods and which were forced to close their school doors included Whiteside, Rock Island, Pike, Jersey, Calhoun, Union and Randolph, he said.

On another subject, Bakalis declared his office "sees no greater crisis than we have had in the past" in working out the 1974 school aid formula.

The formula is the method by which schools throughout the state are awarded state funds.

Gov. Daniel Walker proposed in his 1974 state budget message that the state increase aid to elementary and secondary schools by $134 million.

"It's not clear from the governor's budget whether that money will be used for the distributive formula, for teacher retirement or for some other purpose," he said.

Bakalis' office has already introduced legislation which would increase the amount of state aid distributed to common schools by $14 million.
